Aged Given Tea Break

A $6-a-month increase in old-age pensions won't provide many extra comforts, but old-age pensioners Mr. and Mrs. R. H. French, 47 Hibberson, spread themselves to four bags of tea instead of usual one bag as federal budget announced pension boost and removal of 10 per cent tax on tea. Effective July 1, old-age pensioners will receive $46.—(Photo by Jim Ryan.)

Income Tax Unchanged

Pensions, Family Allowances Up In Pre-Election Federal Budget

Some Tax Relief

OTTAWA (BUP) — Finance Minister Walter Harris last night announced across-the-board social security increases and some modest tax cuts in his pre-election budget.

He announced that old-age assistance payments, disability pensions and blind pensions would be raised July 1 from $40 a month to $46.

A new scale of family allowance payments will be introduced Sept. 1, raising the present $5 a month for each child under six to $6, and raising the present $7 for the 10-to-12 age group to $8.

The various scales of payments under the War Pensions and War Veterans Allowance Acts were also increased, effective July 1.

"SELF-SAVERS"

Mr. Haris allowed special income-tax deductions for "self-savers"—payments into retirement plans and retirement annuities.

"He also said everyone could have a $100 deduction for charitable gifts and medical expenses, without submitting receipts to the tax collectors.

He made no change in general income tax rates.

But he ordered the repeal, effective today, of a wide range of special excise taxes and sales taxes on soft drinks, candy, motorcycles, tea, coffee, pickles, and road-making machinery.

STILL TO STRONG

Mr. Harris said that while inflationary pressures were moderating, they were still too strong to permit any general cut in major direct taxes, such as income tax.

But he announced a series of new income tax deductions which will trim $10,000,000 off his revenues in the fiscal year starting April 1.

The finance minister's new budget was based on expected revenues of $5,170,000,000, and expenditures of $5,018,000,000, leaving him with a surplus expected for March 31, 1958, of $152,000,000.

PERCENTAGES

The budget disclosed that 30 per cent of total government revenues would come from personal income taxes, and 23 per cent from corporation income taxes.

On the expenditure side, 35 per cent will go for national defence, 11 per cent for interest and service of the public debt, and 9 per cent for family allowances. Eight per cent goes to old-age pensioners.

In the income tax department, Mr. Harris announced that taxpayers would be able to deduct up to 10 per cent of their taxable income for payments on new retirement annuities, with a maximum of $2,500 a year for taxpayers who are not members of a registered employer-employee pension plan, and a maximum of $1,500 for members of a registered plan to which the employer makes a tax-free contribution.

SPECIAL DEDUCTION

Starting with returns for the 1957 taxation year — due a year from now—taxpayers will be allowed to claim $100 deduction in lieu of submitting receipts for medical expenses, charitable donations, and trade union or professional membership dues.

"Much as I would like to do so," Mr. Harris said, "I cannot recommend to this House any major reductions in the general level of taxation."

The finance minister summarized his tax policy for this year in these words:

COMBINATION

"The government has decided to recommend to the House a combination of a moderate increase in certain benefit and other payments, together with some measures of tax relief which will give immediate benefits to every family in Canada and some further reductions in taxes that will accrue to most taxpayers toward the end of the fiscal year."

The family allowance payments are now made in four stages: $5 a month for children up to six; $6 from six to nine;

A Strachan Takes Over

Cutting across party lines to cement the bonds of friendship, Premier W. A. C. Bennett yesterday invited Lorraine Strachan, daughter of Opposition leader Robert Strachan, to take over his office desk at the legislative buildings. In keeping with the spirit of the occasion, the premier dubbed Lorraine, a student at Nanaimo's Woodlands Junior High School, "premier for a day." — (Colonist photo by Bud Kinsman.)

Israel Threatens Gunboat Diplomacy

JERUSALEM, Israel (UP) — Foreign Minister Golda Meir warned last night that "Israeli warships will insure the passage of Israeli ships" if Egypt tries to resume its blockade of the Gulf of Aqaba.

In a speech here Mrs. Meir said also that Israel "will insist on the right of free action" in the event of any new Egyptian "commando" raids from the Gaza strip.

Her speech was made against the background of events in Gaza where yesterday Maj.-Gen. Mohammed Latif arrived as Egyptian governor.

It was not certain whether Canadian Maj.-Gen. E. L. M. Burns, the working chief of the disputed strip, would turn over civil control of the area to Latif immediately, but it appeared certain that the transfer of authority would occur soon.

Hoxey 'Cure' Probe Ordered

A University of British Columbia research team will investigate the cancer cure claims of the U.S. Hoxsey clinics for the provincial government.

Announcement was made last night by Health Minister Eric Martin.

Such an investigation was sought earlier this session by Randolph Harding (CCF, Kaslo-Slocan), who said it was the last wish of the late Ernest Winch, CCF-er from Burnaby.

Mr. Harding thanked the minister for his "courage" in ordering the investigation.

The Hoxsey cancer claims were first brought to the attention of the legislature by Mrs. Lydia Arsens, former Social Credit member for Victoria.

Arthur Turner (CCF, Vancouver East) asked that the investigators not be solely medical men.

"We have left that up to the university," said Mr. Martin, "but the word impartial is the key word. It will be an impartial investigation."

DALLAS, Tex. (AP) — The state board of medical examiners yesterday filed an injunction suit against Harry M. Hoxsey and two of his cancer clinic staff, seeking to stop Hoxsey from practicing medicine in Texas.

Naden Petty Officer Collapses in Car, Dies

A young naval petty officer collapsed at the wheel of his car as he was leaving HMCS Naden at 4.45 p.m. yesterday and died soon after in the RCN hospital.

William H. Clarke, 35, 4062 Carey, an engineer with the navy, suffered a heart attack, naval officials said. He was married.

It was also reported in Esquimalt last night that an elderly man walked into the sea off Macauley Point to his death.

Harris Sticks to Guns

Money Kept Tight

By HARRY YOUNG
Colonist Business Editor

Caught between the ogre of inflation and an upcoming federal election, Finance Minister Harris has doled out his "mercies" in carefully—measured doses and has tried to give everyone a little bit of something.

He picked on the lowest income bracket, the young family man, and the aged, as those least likely to do harm to the government's battle to keep the smouldering fires of inflation from erupting into a midsummer holocaust.

Naturally there is criticism. With taxes moderately high, it wasn't easy in an election year to dole out only $128,000,000 after a $282,000,000 surplus, and the action could cost many votes next June.

However, Mr. Harris stuck to his tight-money policy, and no one is going to find himself "with a lot of extra spending money as a result of the tax changes.

A lowering of the standard income and corporation tax rates was not really expected, although some held a lingering hope of a last-minute surprise.

BOON TO SOME

A boon to self-employed persons and those without company pension plan facilities will be the extension of income tax postponement concessions to anyone taking out annuities or participating in savings retirement plans.

In giving everyone a flat deduction of $100 from taxable income in lieu of allowances for medical expenses, charitable donations and trade or professional dues, Mr. Harris will remove a lot of book work in the collection of vouchers, and will help the lower-bracket taxpayer.

The main objection to the budget may be the modest $6-a-month increase in the pensions rate. At $46 the pensioner will be little better off than he is at present. Mr. Harris will be accused of "niggardly" generosity.

The increased allowance of $1 a month in the children's allowance for children up to 12 years, will hardly do more than meet the recent increased costs in the price of milk.

CHEAPER CANDIES

The children themselves, however, will get something extra by the abolition of the 10 per cent tax on candies, soft drinks and chewing gums. This will help to spread out the weekly pocket money . . . but just a little.

The housewife will also be glad to hear that coffee and tea, now at greatly increased prices in the stores, will also come in for some relief. The 10 per cent sales tax on these as well as cocoa and some other grocery lines is to be abandoned.

The one-part of the inflation ogre Mr. Harris didn't dare to tackle, although he must have felt inclined to do so, was to institute some consumer credit curbs on the finance companies. He has left consumer credit wide open.

Six or Seven Cents

Tea, Coffee Cheaper

Removal of a 10 per cent excise tax announced in the federal budget will lower the prices of tea and coffee, but will not affect the price of products containing sugar, spokesmen said last night.

Chocolate bars are expected to be made larger.

W. Palmer, president of the Independent Merchants Co-operative Association, said last night that prices of tea, coffee and cocoa were expected to drop 10 per cent immediately. Saving per pound on tea and coffee will be six or seven cents.

Meeting of the association last night decided to approach the wholesalers and ask for a rebate on shelf stocks, he said.

Mr. Palmer said he did not expect any drop in the price of confectionery as manufacturers had been carrying the increased cost of sugar without any increase.

Told about the removal of the tax, Edward Gudewill, manager of Goodwill Bottling Ltd., said: "Thank goodness for that—it is about time. Last year I commented on the budget and said every dog had its day. This is it.

"If we did not get this concession we would have had to raise the price again. The last price rise has been swallowed up by a rise in the price of sugar. About two pounds of sugar are used to each case."

Boost 'Disappointing'

Pensioners Glum

Victoria's old-age pensioners were glum over the $6 pension increase announced in the federal budget last night.

"Unsatisfactory and disappointing," said Robert H. French, president of the Old Age Pensioners' Organization, Branch No. 5.

The budget boosts old-age pensions from $40 to $46 monthly, effective July 1.

Maximum monthly payment on old-age assistance, blind and disability pensions, shared with the provinces under a means test, will also be raised from $40 to $46 on July 1.

"I'm speaking for 400 members of the branch when I say we are disappointed," Mr. French said.

"We fully expected $10," he said. "We are now living in hope that the province will do something. The provincial government has been very good about it before and we hope they will do more."

A petition asking for a $25 increase, signed by 3,000 pensioners, was sent to Ottawa recently.

"We never expected the $25 but certainly expected at least $10," said another pensioner, A. E. Grafton.

He said he was "disgusted" with the paltry $6 increase.

Glen Hamilton, director of the Silver Threads Society, an association which assists pensioners, said the increase was long overdue. "Hooray for the increase—as far as it goes."

ALL ABOARD

With G. E. Mortimore

THE season of First Fauna and Strange Vegetables will soon be on us.

Telephones will be humming with the cheerful news that the season of 1957 is flapping overhead and a newly arrived Pickled Fishawk is casing a subscriber's lily pond.

The entrance to the newspaper office will soon be jammed with people wheeling in blue daffodils, giant parsnips and radishes that look like President Eisenhower.

Newspaper folk are delighted to receive these bulletins and to view those wonders of nature.

The only trouble is that for every championship claimant in the world of early birds or quaint flowers and vegetables

Print an item about a blue daffodil and you are swamped at once with mauve daffodils, green daffodils and jonquils that are clearly marked with the Old Borstal colors.

Dare to mention a giant parsnip, and you will be rebuked at once by a dozen gardeners who have parsnips 10 pounds fatter.

For every radish that looks like President Eisenhower, there are 20 that look like Abraham Lincoln, or Dave Beck.

Desperate Measures

If the newspaper is to be saved from becoming a case-journal of abnormal horticulture, desperate measures must be used. But it is bad manners to say "Blow, Mac, you should be in a vegetable store." That loses friends.

The only way out is to discover such large, strange and early specimens yourself that nobody can top you.

"Biggest potato recorded in B.C. this year has been dug by Alexander Clamtooth, a member of this newspaper's staff. It weighs 63 pounds, 7½ ounces. It has two projections like noses, and a set of cunningly-placed eyes. From the south end it looks remarkably like Foster Dulles, and from the north it is a perfect likeness of Gamel Abdel Nasser.

"I must have spilled on the potatoes some of the fertilizer I use on my 18-pound tomatoes and my six-pound cabbages," Mr. Clamtooth said.

"First stink-lily of the season was found yesterday by G. E. Mortimore, who came upon it while watching the first vulture of the season gorging itself on the carcass of the first humming-bird."

Dry Toast on Wing

University of Toronto zoologist Dr. F. A. Urquhart, who claims that monarch butterflies are delicious, told a meeting of scientists in Toronto that while text books state the monarch butterfly is distasteful to both birds and humans the insect actually tastes like dry toast. He persuaded two fellow scientists to eat bttuerflies at the meeting.—(CP)

Jubilee Wing

Likely Upshot: 'Nothing'—Ash

City council's action in setting Victoria's share of the cost of a new Royal Jubilee Hospital wing at $125,000 "means perhaps that nothing will be done," Reeve Arthur Ash of Saanich said last night.

"It's another instance of quibbling over the sharing of costs, at the expense of the people," Reeve Ash said. "If the others (the adjoining municipalities) take the same attitude, where are we left?"

City council unanimously and without debate endorsed the recommendation of its special hospital committee that the city contribute $25,000 a year for five years from current revenue toward the $150,000 municipal share of the $1,800,000 total cost of the proposed new wing.

SHARE REDUCED

The committee recommended this share, approximately 28 per cent of the municipal total, instead of the 35.7 per cent share suggested in talks with the hospital board and the reeves of the adjoining municipalities.

The compromise formula that was most generally acceptable in the talks called for a contribution of $160,650 from Victoria, 12 per cent or $34,000 from Esquimalt, 12.1 per cent or $34,340 from Oak Bay and 40.2 per cent or $180,900 from Saanich.

Yesterday's decision by city council leaves Oak Bay, Saanich, Esquimalt, 12.1 per cent or $34,340 themselves if and how they should share $325,000 of municipal cost.

Ships Crash At Sea

THE HAGUE (CP)—The hull of the Halifax—bound Dutch liner Waterman, carrying 852 passengers including Hungarian refugees, was ripped open Thursday in a collision with an Italian freighter 600 miles from Ireland.

No casualties were reported when the Waterman and the freighter Merit collided in dense fog and both ships reported they were in no danger.

The 9,178-ton Waterman's shipping agency in Rotterdam, herfirst of origin, later reported all well on board and weather conditions satisfactory.

NO DIFFICULTY

The Merit, 7,414 tons, resumed her voyage to Hamburg from Genoa after a radio message saying she was in no difficulty.

The Waterman carried 312 Hungarian refugees en route to a new life in Canada, 440 Dutch immigrants, 200 for Canada and 250 for the United States, and 50 other passengers.

Project Talks Get Nowhere

The Greater Victoria Centennial Committee last night trimmed a list of more than 40 project suggestions to five, but came nowhere near agreement on any of them.

The three Saanich council representatives stood firm on contributing to the Royal Jubilee Hospital wing, and it appeared an impasse may be the result.

The hospital wing, and four other proposals, were put on the "A" list of the committee. The others are:

1. Incorporation of three proposals on Gorge Park restoration and development;

YOUTH CENTRE

2. Construction of a youth centre with facilities for various activities and located near Memorial Arena, to make use of icing facilities;

3. Development of Fort Rod Hill as a park which the federal government might take over, and

4. Construction of a museum on the parking lot next to the legislative buildings in the area which Ald. Elmer McKwen said "the government has big plans for."

It was decided that estimated costs of the projects would be determined before the next meeting, March 29.

"WING" OPPOSED

Members of the committee outside of the Saanich representatives were against contributing centennial money to a hospital wing, since it was something that was needed anyway. Saanich members said they were committed by their council to that project.

"If we put our money into something we'd be getting anyway, we're just being clods," said Esquimalt representative Russell Potter after a lengthy argument.

Whether you grate it, shred it, slice or cube it, Canadian cheese will add interest to many parts of any meal. Try adding a spoonful of grated cheese to each serving of hot soup . . . improves the flavor and ups the protein! Remember too that grated or shredded cheese works wonders on sauces for broccoli, cauliflower and potatoes and on hot sandwiches too. And of course, cubes of cheese added to vegetable, fruit, fish and meat salads help make them hearty and man-sized.

Garden Notes

Don't Plant Bulbs All at One Time

By M. V. CHESNUT, FRHS

In yesterday's notes on the planting of gladiolus bulbs, I should have warned you against the practice of putting all your bulbs in the ground at the one time.

If this is done, a great number of your plants will come into flower simultaneously, and you'll find yourself glutted for a few weeks with far more blooms than you can possibly use. Thereafter, all through the long fall months, you'll be without any flowers.

I make my first planting around April 1. I've tried putting them in earlier, but there doesn't seem to be much advantage, for the plants just stand still until the soil warms up.

Then, about every second weekend throughout the spring and early summer, I bung in a few more bulbs, and in this way I have a small but steady supply of spikes for cutting coming along all through August, September and October, rather than a glut of blooms over a few short weeks.

It is rather surprising how late glad bulbs may be put in. On one occasion, a Victoria dealer cleaned out all his unsold stock of bulbs in late June, offering them at considerably less than half price. Some of these were real aristocrats—terribly expensive varieties which I couldn't have afforded normally, although I coveted them as a miser yearns for gold.

With some misgivings because of the lateness of the season, I blew myself to 300 of these sale bulbs, even though they were slightly soft to the touch and had sprouts emerging from their tops. Most of these didn't get planted until Dominion Day holiday weekend, but every one of them made a good spike of flowers.

They were a little late in blooming, it is true, which was all to the good as far as I was concerned, and the spikes were not as tall as they should have been, but the bulbs I harvested that fall were beautiful specimens, and my collection has been enriched considerably through this gamble.

Coming back to the earliest plantings, these have sometimes given me quite a bit of worry, for when the top-growth emerges and the first leaves were formed, they had an unhealthy, yellow-green appearance, for all the world as if they had been attacked by a disease or were starved for nitrogen.

JUST CHILLY

I have learned since, though, that this isn't serious. It is simply the result of chilling from the cold winds we often get in late April, and the plants grow out of it as soon as warmer weather arrives, with the foliage developing a blue-green color, with a faint dusty bloom, as on the surface of a well-grown grape, which is an indication of perfect health.

'They'll Forget'—Beck

SEATTLE (UPI) — Dave Beck, president of the teamsters' union said yesterday that six months after the senate rackets committee concludes its hearings on his union, the public will have forgotten that it ever took place.

He said the hearings "are bound to collapse . . . and after six months if you walk down the street and ask the first 100 persons you see about these hearings, they won't know what you're talking about."

"Right now the committee may make it look like there's a lot of things wrong on the surface," Beck added. "Sure, there may be a few things wrong but we'll come out of this stronger and bigger than ever. There may be places where we have to tighten up and make corrections."

You can find things wrong with any organization . . . and from time to time you'll find some members who have forsaken their oath and are doing abortions."

Pilot's Gallantry

Twenty Killed, Hundreds Live

MANCHESTER, England (UP) — The pilot of a British turbo-prop Viscount airliner en route from Amsterdam to Manchester crashed his plane into a row of houses yesterday to avoid hitting two crowded schools.

All 20 persons aboard the plane were killed and two persons in one of the houses are missing. But police said the pilot's gallantry saved the lives of hundreds of school children.

The big British European Airways plane, flying from Amsterdam, apparently overshot the runway at Ringway airport and crashed in the garden suburb of Wythenshawe, half a mile away, narrowly missing an engineering factory.

It skimmed over the crowded playgrounds of the two schools, which stand side-by-side, and headed toward open fields beyond. Just before it reached the fields, a mile short of the airport, it nose-dived into a row of houses in Shadowcross Lane.

The pilot was identified as Capt. Tom Breheny.

It was the first Viscount to crash during a passenger flight. Since going into service the Viscounts have flown more than 150,000,000 miles and carried between 6,000,000 and 7,000,000 passengers, BEA said.

Salk Shots Fail—Once

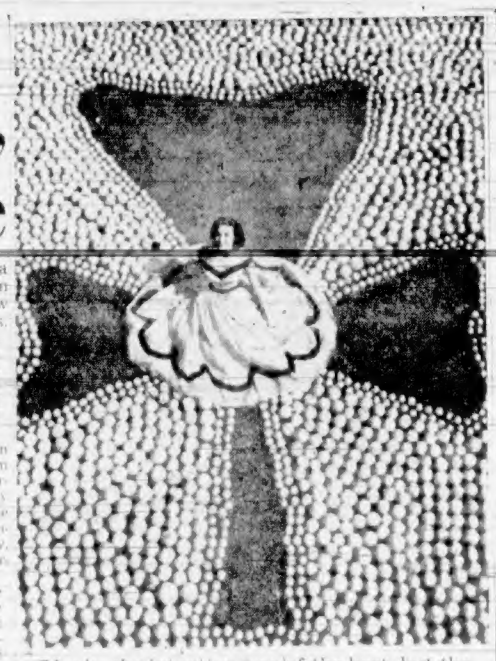
NEW YORK (AP)—The National Foundation for Infantile Paralysis says a New Mexico boy is the first child positively known to have died of polio after three Salk vaccine shots.

The youngster, Tommy Mohr, of Albuquerque, died last January. A foundation spokesman said the boy apparently was a rare individual upon whom the vaccine had no effect.

The spokesman said the youngster received his third shot four months before he contracted the disease and this ruled out any chance that he had become infected by the vaccine.

BIG INCREASE

Motor vehicles registered in Switzerland in 1956 totalled more than 600,000 an increase of 100,000 over the previous year.



Maybe the intention was of the best, but the use of orange (even the fruit) in conjunction with the emerald green shamrock just isn't done. At least not while the Irish still regard William of Orange as several shades blacker than Ould Nick. But lovely Marion McKnight, Miss America 1957, does her best to make up for the faux pas. She can make even a green and orange shamrock palatable. —(CPC)

Peace Move Hinted

Cyprus Hopes Soar

NICOSIA, Cyprus (AP)—Governor Sir John Harding, commenting on a Greek Cypriot truce [illegible] come any move to halt violence.

His statement neither accepted nor rejected Thursday's rebel offer of a cease-fire on condition the British release Archbishop Makarios from exile.

But it was interpreted by Greek Cypriots as holding promise of a settlement of the long rebellion against British colonial rule over the island.

Harding was in conference with aides and advisers through most of the night. At 2 a.m. his office issued the statement, saying merely that he would be the first to welcome any move toward "a genuine and permanent cessation of the present violence."

[illegible] the governor could say no more but that he was certain the British government would display "no lack of imagination" in dealing with the situation.

The bid for a cease-fire on condition Makarios is freed was made in leaflets distributed in all the colony's main towns. They were signed by Dighenis, leader of EOKA, the rebel underground army which for almost two years has been trying to drive the British from Cyprus and make it part of Greece.

The Greek Orthodox Church leader was exiled to the Seychelles Islands in the Indian Ocean a year ago by Harding on the ground that he was a dangerous rebel.

Two Little Girls Welcome Daddy

By TED SHACKLEFORD

Two small girls stood at the passenger exit doors of TCA's Patricia Bay terminal building yesterday and quietly watched the 5.30 flight from Vancouver touch down.

They were very happy but, with the gravity of children when something is important to them, they didn't show it. Not until they were allowed into the cabin of the plane, where their father was waiting.

The girls were Bonnie, 12, and Susan, 7, daughters of rescued helicopter pilot Johnny Watson, 2021 Carrick, who spent 12 days lost in the rugged territory near the Alaska panhandle.

The helicopter piloted by Mr. Watson ran out of fuel Feb. 28 on a flight from Teslin on the Yukon, B.C. border, to Telegraph Creek, B.C. News that the men had been found was heard Monday, ending an anxious period for relatives of Johnny Watson and his engineer, Gregg Temperley of Powell River.

The girls' father was carried from the plane on a stretcher and taken to Royal Jubilee Hospital by ambulance. He is still suffering from frozen feet, sustained when he tried to hike from the downed helicopter to Telegraph Creek.

In the few minutes before the ambulance left the airport, a happily-smiling Mrs. Watson explained that the two men first thought they were close to Telegraph Creek. When they had been hiking for some days without finding it they retraced their steps to the helicopter.

Soon after their return, Temperley again set out in an attempt to walk to civilization, leaving the injured pilot in the helicopter. Then, on the 12th day, rescurers found the helicopter.

Johnny Watson was as happy as his daughters and greeted Colonist photographer Jim Ryan by name. Still wearing the parka which helped keep him warm during his ordeal, he showed few signs of his experience.

For Susan there was special reason to be happy. With any luck her father will be home from hospital in time for her birthday on March 30.

Tax Protest

Godiva Rides Again

LONDON, March 14 (UP)—A showgirl wearing only panties and a bra rode a horse into Piccadilly Circus in protest against Britain's amusement tax.

"Lady Godiva did it to stop an unfair tax and so did I," she said.

The showgirl was Geraldine Haigh, 36-28-38, and unemployed.

"I decided that for my last performance I would make them take notice," the shapely blond said.

And she did. Hundreds of wide-eyed Londoners got a long look before police moved in to end the show.

Police did not prefer any charges.

The tax has discouraged theatre patrons and closed many theatres (including the one where Miss Haigh worked.) It averages about 34 per cent on movies and about 15 per cent on legitimate theatre prices.

Out-of-Control Car Hurtles into Rocks

William D. Lasell, 544 Broadway, was in fairly good condition in Royal Jubilee Hospital last night, recovering from injuries received when his car ran out of control off the Island Highway at about 9.30 p.m. Wednesday.

Alone in the car, Mr. Lasell suffered an injured shoulder, cut knee and facial abrasions.

Saanich police who attended the scene said Mr. Lasell was driving west on the highway near Wilkinson Road when his car went out of control.

The car crossed the eastbound traffic lane and travelled 123 feet along the side of the road before hitting a rock bank 19 feet from the highway's surface. Force of the crash turned the car completely around, and caused $1,000 damage to the late-model sedan.

The Study Should Continue

WHATEVER may be in the minds of present municipal leaders and their councils in the Greater Victoria area, it would be the path of wisdom for all of them to continue a study of what amalgamation could do for this region and what it would imply. There is little doubt that most communities on the southern end of Vancouver Island are due for much larger populations, greater problems over traffic, a continuing struggle to give elementary municipal services over a considerably expanded field, and to do this without overlapping or public waste. To take only one instance of the disabilities of the present situation, planning, can there in fact be four separate municipal plans for the development of the same general region and could they be carried out effectively on a sectional basis?

It has been established beyond doubt that the Greater Victoria area, like every other part of British Columbia under the same influx of people, must move with the times. That will entail real planning, close budgeting and co-ordination on a much more realistic plane than has been attempted yet. Roads to move traffic, sewers to service homes, police and fire protection, schools (which have been the first to feel the brunt), and many other forms of municipal effort have to be planned, or the result will be meaningless.

There are already regional planning facilities in the Greater Victoria area. This work will go for nothing, however, unless the larger concept of a regional plan can be put together, considered and one day agreed upon as the course to follow. Victoria and its municipal neighbors have toyed with planning, and with leaving it alone; but the result has not been the origination of any major step that has been taken in unison to a common end. If the whole area were static that condition might be less harmful, but this is not the case. By every reasonable estimate, the Greater Victoria area is headed for a regional population perhaps twice that which it is today. Space will be at a premium then, and an opportunity lost to use it to best advantage.

Neither the city of Victoria nor any of the three municipalities on its flanks have anything to lose from continuing a sober and quiet study of these matters, with a view to working towards a solution whenever that proves feasible. Their debts are different. Their degree of installed improvements is varied. Some have problems not common to others. But all have one real problem that is shared completely in common—as more people enter the Greater Victoria region they must be provided for under every single department of the whole municipal code. How can that best be achieved, without overlapping or waste effort? A year's study of the subject would be time well spent in the long run.

Back Where It Started

THE Middle East situation is back almost to where it started three months ago, and the weakness of U.S. foreign policy is made unpleasantly clear. Whatever passed between the Saudi Arabia king and President Eisenhower in their recent private talks is not known, but events since have shown which way the land lay. Israel was brought to heel and forced to withdraw from Sinai in compliance with Arab wishes, and those of U.S. oil interests dependent on Arabian good will. Well, Jewish fears have proved all too well founded, as only naivete could have denied. Egypt's Nasser is bent on moving back into the Gaza strip and, patently, a resumption of the guerrilla action that provoked the Israeli invasion of Egypt.

Here are all the elements of a grave crisis brought together again. For once also the British press is united, this time in condemnation of the Eisenhower policy. It was American pressure which forced Britain and France to abandon their Suez Canal venture, and it was the U.S. threat of sanctions which compelled Israel to follow suit; coupled with the pious expression that Israel could assume it had nothing to fear and that no guarantee against further Egyptian belligerency was necessary. It is not surprising therefore that the unanimity now is that it is squarely up to Mr. Eisenhower to solve the Middle East dilemma. Having in effect kicked his premier allies out, the ball is now his.

The tragedy is that three factors conspire to weaken the decisive nature of the presidential role; a preoccupation with golf scores, a penchant for platitudes rather than action, and indifferent health. It is quite plain that Mr. Eisenhower does not like troublesome matters, but these are not to be removed by pretending they do not exist. It is an evasion of responsibility on his part also to ignore reality and pass the buck to the United Nations. No one should know better than he that the UN needs the full weight of American economic and diplomatic influence to be thrown alongside it as well as within it. Mr. Eisenhower did not hesitate to apply this influence unilaterally against Britain, France and Israel. If he does not waken up to the menace presented by Colonel Nasser there is no telling what the final result will be. And whatever it is the U.S. will have to bear the biggest burden if in the long run military force has to be employed in settlement of the turbulent Middle East scene.

Support Cadet Movement

IN a garrison community as old as this pride in the Queen's uniform is innate and cherished. Sea cadets, army cadets and air force cadet corps all do well. They attract to their ranks numbers of young people who receive a first-class training in self-reliance, smartness and good citizenship. In the routine course of events cadets under training hold their own parades and competitions, and compete with other corps throughout Canada for some national awards. On occasion there is an invitation to one or more groups among them to take part in some public demonstration, such as May 24 or some similar occasion. Yet it is surprising that not more advantage has been taken of the really fine turnout of these corps, a worthwhile attraction in itself.

In the current year one would like to see more attention paid to the whole of the cadet movement. Opportunity should be provided for them to take—not an incidental—but even a highlighted part on fete occasions. There is much friendly rivalry between the cadets of the three services. Top-notch units compete in smartness, in marching, in steadiness on parade and in everything else for the honor of their own corps. The result is, and long has been, a considerable group of young people who can put on a first-class show. There could be more recognition of their efforts, and more opportunity for the public to witness the parades.

With Victoria's holiday program now in course of arrangement, it should be possible to highlight cadet representation in a more telling way. They could be given a parade section of their own, opportunity to put on drills and sports in area competitions, and worked into the scheme of things in many effective ways. That measure of public interest in their units would prove valuable and most encouraging to the corps and to their unselfish instructors.

Greece Strengthens Defences

By SAM MODIANO
Reuters Staff Correspondent

ATHENS (Reuters)—The strength of the Greek Army is being increased by 4,000 to 109,000 men to strengthen frontier units stationed in Macedonia and Thrace.

The step is being taken following reports of reinforcement of the Bulgarian armed forces.

Increases in the Greek armed forces on the Greek-Bulgarian and Greek-Albanian borders are regarded as a move by the Greek general staff to hold the balance of power in this part of the Balkan Peninsula.

* * *

Defence plans of the Balkan Alliance signed by Greece, Yugoslavia and Turkey in August, 1954, have been outdated by events in the Middle East since that time, observers here state.

Military co-operation between Greece and Turkey has virtually ceased since the anti-Greek riots in Istanbul and Izmir in September, 1955.

During his recent visit to Athens Admiral Briscoe, commander-in-chief, Allied forces, South Europe, discussed with the Greek general staff the new military plans which are co-ordinated with the blueprint for the general defence of the South European Allied Command.

* * *

The Greek armed forces now are being equipped with the latest types of military equipment. The Greek Army is progressively replacing its arms with up-to-date equipment. Under the existing supply plan of the North Atlantic Treaty Organization, Greece is to be provided with motorized vehicles and tanks. Greek artillery units will have the latest model heavy and light guns.

The pro-government Greek newspaper Kathimerini has reported that the Bulgarian armed forces recently have been supplied with large quantities of up-to-date war material by the Soviet Union.

Greek military experts claim that the Bulgarian Army is being speedily organized on the Soviet pattern, its divisions acquiring a greater striking capacity, with more auxiliary units and a better system of logistics. Bulgaria's armed forces are believed to consist at present of 12 infantry divisions and three armored brigades.

QUIZ questions and answers, whether written, oral or visual, one's mind might well do without but they do titilate a person, even temporarily. And I suppose anything that keeps one from slothful mental ease is a good thing. (The sad aspect of this is that it's so nice to sink into stupor.)

At least I was intrigued when in Saturday Night I saw a quiz that dealt with the Titanic. I daresay my interest stemmed from a question which set all my notions astray. I had always assumed along with a million other people and buttressed by Noel Coward's "Cavalcade" and frequent repetition elsewhere, that when the ship sank the band was playing "Nearer, My God to Thee."

The quiz says it wasn't, and quizzes aren't supposed ever to be wrong. It is so hard, though, to know what to believe nowadays. I shouldn't say nowadays because our ancestors thrived on mere rumor, not enjoying as we do manifold means of communications. So they couldn't have known the absolute either, except that maybe they were more simple-minded, not being able to read and get all excited inside about the two sides to every question.

* * *

I went to see "Richard III" the other night, for instance—a magnificent movie, by the way—and now I'm back where I started not so long ago. That was when I began to be persuaded by recent reading that perhaps Richard wasn't such a bad fellow after all; it was just that historians, including the latest, Winston Churchill, had a down on the poor chap. Well, Laurence Olivier obviously isn't of that opinion and he fairly made my flesh creep with his version of the monarch who redeemed himself only, perhaps, by crying for a horse so that he could die like a man.

The point I am meandering around is that henceforth I suspect that Richard will be mud in my eyes and primarily because Olivier made him seem so. Shakespeare is initially to blame of course as he is with other of our fancy historical concepts. Not until some quiz of the future comes along to supply the right answer, possibly, will the lank, dank, malevolent creature I saw on a screen be erased from my rebolstered notions of him.

* * *

I have a feeling sometimes that these celebrated figures of history were actually not all as large as their names. They are writ big, on a giant scale; that is all. I doubt certainly that their tongues had the majesty Shakespeare gives them, for one thing, and for another the odd one at least must in reality have been pretty small potatoes. But they are painted onto the historical scene like Big Brothers, usually of baleful design. Mind you, you can't quite shrink to a shrimp anyone who can have another's head chopped off with a snap of the fingers, or drowned in a barrel of wine, but the feeling persists that they're oft blown up beyond their deserts, good or bad.

But getting back to the Titanic, much nearer our own day than Richard, this quiz affirms that the ship's band played merry ragtime tunes as the ship slowly sank and people scrambled for the boats. And that only when the bridge dipped under did the bandmaster tap his violin and the musicians begin the Episcopal hymn "Autumn." Not "Nearer, My God to Thee" at all.

Ah well, as Churchill said of Alfred and the cakes, if the story wasn't true it ought to have been. Dithered as I am by quizzes and movies I'm inclined to stick to my previous notions about the Titanic and a favorite hymn.

International Commentary

Who Are the 'Imperialists'?

By W. N. EWER, from London

THE year 1957 takes a place in history beside the year 1947. It was in 1947 that the first Asian countries of the British Empire (India, Pakistan, Ceylon and Burma) became independent states. On March 6, 1957, the first purely African country of the Empire became independent. The "Gold Coast Colony" is now the State of Ghana, a fully equal and independent partner state of the Commonwealth.

It is one more step in what is, to my mind, the most important international development of our time—the transformation of the "Colonial Empire" built during the 17th, 18th and 19th centuries into what a great Canadian Premier, Sir Wilfrid Laurier, called a "galaxy of free nations."

The process has been one which has not come about without difficulties and stresses and conflicts, as do all political evolutions. Changes in human relationships, international, internal, or even personal, rarely come to pass without opposition and resistance. But, looking back, I think that it is remarkable how so great a revolution has been effected with comparatively so little bloodshed.

* * *

The achievement of independence does not solve all the problems for the new nations. It solves some. It creates others.

Some are external. There is the conflict between India and Pakistan over Kashmir. There are international strains and stresses in the Middle East. Some are internal, as, at the moment, in Indonesia. Ghana already has its own acute problems. To achieve independence is to accept responsibility for solving them. I have every hope and every confidence that they will be solved. But the responsibility now rests with the government and with the people of Ghana.

They have as Dr. Nkrumah, prime minister of Ghana, has said, a responsibility not only to themselves but to other African peoples who are moving in the same path.

But the path is set. It is the accepted and declared aim of British policy that peoples who during the period of "imperial expansion" came in one way or another under British rule shall, as quickly as possible, become self-governing and independent. It is an aim which is being achieved. Ghana is the latest proof that for us the age of "colonialism" has passed. The concept of the "Empire" has given place to the finer concept of the "Commonwealth."

* * *

And that in various ways is true of other European countries which from the 16th century spread their rule over Asia and Africa and America.

Yet to this there is an exception—and an ironical one. The only European great power which continues in the old "imperialist" way is Soviet Russia. The Asian dominions of the Tsarist regime are not moving to independence. There are no Soviet Ghanas. On the contrary, they are being more and more closely "integrated" with Russia itself.

Russia is quite literally "colonizing" them. Russian and Ukrainian immigrants are displacing the Kazakhs and the Kirghiz and the other Central Asian peoples. In Europe the Hungarians have been brutally taught what can happen to people who dare to try to free themselves from Russian domination. The lesson is intended for others as well.

Tibet is a warning that Communist China has the same "great power Chauvinism" as Russia. These two, alone of all great powers, still show the will to dominate and the will to expand. They may find justification for it in a desire to replace "capitalism" by "communism."

The imperialist powers have never failed to find ideological reasons for expansion.

* * *

Here is the strange picture of the world today. The old "empires" of the "West" are being liquidated. Some may think too slowly, but they are being liquidated with the assent of the "imperialist" powers. At the same time the two Communist empires are pressing outwards on their neighbors, not always by direct armed force. There are other means—economic infiltration, propaganda, exploitation of internal dissensions and conflicts. These, as the peoples around their borders—whether in Europe, in Asia or in Africa—must surely be aware, are current weapons of communist imperialism. They are none the less dangerous for being non-military.

And, as Hungarians and Tibetans have learned, where a communist power once gets a grip it does not loosen it.

There are no Ghanas in either the Russian or the Chinese empires.

Thick-Skinned Officialdom

(From The Toronto Globe and Mail)

SO often have the courts of Canada condemned the Star Chamber hearings of Canada's Immigration Department that their comments have almost ceased to be news. This is one of the most depressing aspects of today's omnipotent government. The courts, as the guardians of freedom, have continually assailed the extra-legal practices of this department; they are answered only by the silence of an apathetic people (since only "foreigners" are really hurt) and an obdurate bureaucracy.

Once again a Supreme Court justice has been moved to refer to the departmental hearing which ordered deportation of a would-be immigrant as "a mockery." And so another case is recorded, among a legion of them, in which the courts criticize the step-by-step illegality which appears to be the policy of Mr. Pickersgill's department.

Immigration inspectors begin the dismal process with a mysterious labyrinth of regulations which have never been passed by Parliament but which, none the less, are the law of the land for the prospective immigrant. The regulations are, as the Ontario Appeal Court once said, "ever-changing according to the individual notion of immigration officers."

A person subject to an order for deportation may get a hearing. In this the regulations interpreted by an official of the Immigration Department, are reviewed by the Immigration Department. It is mockery indeed. Many of the elementary safeguards of court practice are ignored; there is no clear road to appeal against an immigration officer's whim. Some immigrants have managed to struggle their way into the free air of the courts; only Mr. Pickersgill knows how many have given up and left Canada with, among their souvenirs, a bad taste in the mouth.

How thick-skinned can one department, one minister and one government be? How long must the courts condemn the petty inquisitions of this department before even rough, elementary frontier justice can be applied to this country's prospective citizens?

When the Immigration Department seeks to expel a newcomer to Canada, a prospect which to many immigrants may be more painful than a prison term, surely it is not too much to require it to apply to a court of competent jurisdiction. There, at least, the immigrant will have the right of full disclosure of the evidence, of cross-examination, of counsel of his own choice and, if need be, the right of appeal. Even bad law properly administered is more desirable than bad law badly administered.

The Packsack

Of GREGORY CLARK

A MAN with whom I go bird watching very early Sunday mornings is manager of a thriving commercial enterprise and his duties take him on fairly frequent trips to the United States. He always brings home one of those handsome big one-pound tins of a very good grade of American pipe tobacco.

Now, he is not a pipe smoker himself. But he leaves the tin on his desk in his office, and all pipe smokers within the organization are invited to come in at any time and help themselves to a pipe full.

This goes not only for the office manager, who is the most senior pipe smoker in the outfit, but for two or three junior men addicted to the pipe, as well as for one of the elevator men and the two maintenance and watchmen in the building who come on duty about 5 p.m. each day.

It is quite an experience to be sitting in the manager's office and see a man come in the door, smile deferentially, calmly fill his pipe, and calmly depart.

"I'll tell you what it does," explained the manager. "It not only reduces tension in the office; it destroys that fake air of aloofness and personal dignity on the part of management, at its various levels, which is one of the chief sources of tension. It unstuffs shirts.

"And it is friendly. I find pipe smokers are solid, reflective, contemplative men. You can't be a chatterer and smoke a pipe. When any of the boys have something on their minds, they come and fill up. I like the look of a man with something on his mind lighting his pipe. It relaxes you."

"Well," I enquired, "how about confidential visitors? Do you like your staff coming in when you are talking to important people about things that are nobody else's business?"

"That's the very point," explained the manager. "There is no confidential business around here. Our business is everybody's business. We're all in it. And that tin of tobacco is the symbol of that very thing."

"But," I pointed out, "only pipe smokers are invited."

"No," he smiled, "they're just specially invited."

Denizens of Deep

The movie "The Silent World" now showing here has revived an idea I expressed some years ago. That is, the desirability of erecting a first-class aquarium in Beacon Hill Park. Lately we have been hearing much about establishing a zoo in the city or vicinity. Squeezed as we are between the great cities of Vancouver and Seattle, it seems to me that anything we can do in that line would look poor and insignificant compared to what they can do. On the other hand, I know of no first-class aquarium north of the Steinhart in Golden Gate Park, San Francisco, which is one of that city's chief attractions.

Anyone who has seen that aquarium or a picture like "The Silent World" must have been struck by the variety in color, shape and size of these denizens of the deep, something I am sure no exhibit of land animals can equal. I am sure that something similar to the Steinhart aquarium here would be a great tourist attraction, educative of marine life and pleasing to the eye. It would be something to which the SPCA could not well object since Mr. Fish is a cold-blooded fellow. Nor do I think it would be as costly as a zoo to maintain, since one elephant in a few gulps could swallow half the fish and the whole of their food. I know such an institution could not be built and stocked in time for our centenary celebration, but I would like to get the idea simmering in the public mind, and taken up by the city council, the parks board or any other public body or person interested in the future of our city. Victoria is ideally suited for such a purpose.

Tax Rebates

I too wish to criticize the proposed $28 tax rebate to householders.

Along with the 10 per cent reduction on fees printed annually on our automobile registration applications, the proposed rebate savors of "box-top" or "trading stamp" mentality. Surely a strange philosophy for responsible government.

As an individual is entitled to one rebate only, it will be good "business" for landlords to register their houses under names of other family members.

The additional clerical work in administration is going to be quite an item.

For those who dislike being bribed with their own tax money, I can only suggest that they give their rebates over to the campaign funds of a party which stands for a planned economy and dignified government at provincial level.

City Hall Economy

Does anyone know, or care, how much the city manager has saved the city since he was installed for that purpose?

To say that he has saved more than his salary is a laugh. We could have done that easily, with a wee bit of economy, without him — and there seems to have been more or less friction between the council and Mr. Wyatt all the time, which does not make for the efficient working of the city's affairs.

How much did he save? That is the question.

Canada's Status

Mr. Mortimore says that the Liberals are trying to whittle away at the commonwealth connection and, as evidence, he cites two crimes alleged to have been committed by the present government. One is dropping the word "dominion." He says "Britain gave us the title and we made it our own. To think it away was a calculated insult to the mother country and our own historic past."

As I have heard that story I understand that the delegation which went to London to get the BNA Act passed, inspired by Sir John A. Macdonald, wanted to call the country "the Kingdom of Canada" but in London it was thought that to set up a kingdom on the North American continent would not be popular at Washington.

Among the delegation was at least one who was a Bible reader and he happened to read the 72nd Psalm in which the words "He shall have dominion from sea to sea" occur. This was the very object the Fathers of Confederation visualized and that word was adopted, and Canada became the first self-governing dominion across the seas; but, so far as I know, the name was never incorporated in the BNA Act.

I think Canada, without addition, is a grand name. If I am asked where I am from I would not say "I am from the Dominion of Canada." I would say "I am from Canada." I would not say "I am a citizen of the Dominion of Canada." I would say "I am a Canadian citizen."

The next crime is that the government took away the right of appeal to the Privy Council. It seems to me that any people that claims to be a nation should be able to make a final decision in its own affairs. If I remember rightly it was Mr. Gaegrain, a Conservative, who when in opposition brought in a bill to make the judgment of the Supreme Court final. The matter was referred to the courts as to whether parliament had the power to do this on its own without consent of the provinces. It was held that the power was there and an act was passed with general consent of all parties.

Mr. Mortimore's criticism of the appointment of our present governor-general is too absurd to bother with.

Protection Sought

Hit-Run Victims

VANCOUVER (CP) — British Columbia insurance agents will ask automobile underwriters to provide insurance protection for hit-run victims.

One of 11 resolutions passed at B.C. Insrance Agents' Association conference here calls for an endorsement to the present automobile police that would provide for persons injured by use.

Under the present system, persons injured by uninsured parties can receive compensation only through the unsatisfied judgments fund. A convic-tion and award must be made before the fund contributed to solely by all insurance companies, can be drawn upon.

The new scheme, almost universal in the U.S. and compulsory in New York and Massachusetts, also provides optional pedestrian insurance.

Clothes, Food Pouring In For Indians

VANCOUVER (CP)—Donations of clothing and food began pouring in from Vancouver citizens Thursday to aid the Sekani Indians reported in "rags and hunger" in northern British Columbia.

Meanwhile, a Social Credit member of the legislature said the "same squalid conditions . . . can be found among many other bands in B.C."

The Sekani Indians' plight was reported by the Province in a story by reporter Ben Metcalfe who was on a tour of the Rocky Mountain Trench, centre of the proposed Wenner-Gren development north of Prince George, B.C.

Deputy Indian Commissioner W. J. McGregor, however, said conditions are "not as bad as reported."

"JUST PUBLICITY"

"These stories are just publicity—to sell newspapers," he said in Vancouver. Mr. McGregor did not think he would request an RCAF flight to move the donated goods to the north.

"If private groups want to send things," he said, "they make their own arrangements. We will make our own arrangements for the things we are sending."

Cyril Shelford, member of Omineca which extends into "Wenner-Gren-Land," said the Indians there "have nothing to look forward to and no feeling of usefulness."

He said the fur trade is "finished and I can't see it starting up again."

"We certainly can't brag about our way of life until we cure this state of affairs among the Indians with an entirely new policy."

DEBT AND FILTH

Reporter Metcalfe wrote he found the Sekani Indians of the Fort Ware and Fort Grahame districts, north of Prince George, "floundering in debt and filth."

He made the tour with Superintendent Eric Underwood of the Indian Affairs Department which has spent more than $6,000 this winter on relief for the Sekani band, numbering about 100 men, women and children.

"They'd rather sit around until they're starving (rather than trap), then make me ask the Indian agent for more free rations," fur trader Ben Cork told Mr. Metcalfe. Clothes remained unwashed until they fell away in rags."

"Elementary sanitaion is ignored and the camps are littered with human waste. They know nothing but the stark diet of flour, tea, sugar and moosemeat."

'Let B.C. Handle Indians'

A Social Credit backbencher will demand that all Indian matters in B.C. be turned over by Ottawa to the provincial government.

Cyril Shelford (SC, Omineca) said yesterday he blamed the federal department of Indian affairs for the plight of a poverty-stricken band of Sekani Indians in the Rocky Mountain Trench area where Swedish financier Axel Wenner-Gren proposes to build an industrial empire.

Mr. Shelford said he will also keep hammering away at the RCMP for allegedly dumping a drunken Indian woman off at the stampede grounds at Williams Lake in 1954. The woman, five months pregnant, froze to death.

Two Men Convicted

Stolen Cars Sold For $30 as Junk

Two men were convicted of car theft after trial in Saanich police court yesterday, and were remanded for sentence to Tuesday.

Found guilty by Magistrate A. I. Thomas were Richard Brooks, 136 Conard and Bill Lidgate, 82 Hampton.

NOT SEEN SINCE

Rfmn Leslie Szabo, QOR, told of leaving his old-model car on McCoy Road, behind Gordon Head army camp, at noon Feb. 27. He said he had not seen it since.

Evan A. Pike, of the department of transport radio station at the end of McCoy Road, told of a conversation with accused on Feb. 27. He said the department had been bothered by cars being left on its property, often abandoned.

On Feb. 27 the two accused came and asked permission to take some of the "junks" away, which he gave.

HAD PERMISSION

Det. Robin Stewart of Saanich police told of questioning Brooks on March 4 about removal of two cars from behind the army camp. He said Brooks admitted taking the cars, but said they had permission to do so.

The officer quoted Brooks as saying they took the cars to Industrial Iron and Metal Trading Co. Ltd. on Tyce Road and sold them.

Fred Allan, office manager of the company which bought the cars, said he paid $30 for the two as junk. They were later burned and cut up, he said.

On the stand, Lidgate told of getting permission to take the two junks," both abandoned and stripped.

This testimony was confirmed by Brooks when he took the stand.

Magistrate Thomas made a point of asking each accused if the cars they removed were theirs to take. Each said no, but they had permission.

Architect Says:

Fort Plan Fits Museum-Park

Centennial project suggestion for a joint museum, park and Indian village seems to be entirely compatible with any restoration and development at Fort Rodd Hill, city architect Rod Clack told Chamber of Commerce members last night.

A tourist trade group meeting, discussing projects for which its support will be given, was told that there is adequate area at the 100-year-old 5th Regiment garrison fort for museum development.

Mr. Clack prepared a brochure on a suggestion made by city business man A. J. Harvey for a large-scale historic park embodying Indian, pioneer and maritime museums with a facsimile of the original Fort Victoria.

The project is in the hands of the Greater Victoria Centennial Committee.

Death Probe Set

Inquest has been set for Monday at 10.30 a.m. in the death of Nicholas Swan, 79, of 1912 Oak Bay Avenue, who died in Royal Jubilee Hospital early yesterday after apparently falling against moving B.C. Electric bus.

The inquest will be held at McNiff's funeral home.

City police were notified of the mishap at 12.01 a.m., when bus driver Jack MacCormick, 3969 Quadra, reported that a passenger had fallen after leaving his bus.

Const. R. Wells attended and took the injured man to hospital, where he died 45 minutes later.

The bus was travelling east on Oak Bay, and made a stop just east of Chamberlain, where Mr. Swan got off.

Police were told that, as the bus started up, a passenger saw Mr. Swan appear to stagger or walk into the side of the bus.

NATIVE OF U.S.

Mr. Swan was a native of Colfax, Ill., and had lived in Neb., Edmonton before coming to Victoria 17 years ago. He made his home here with a daughter, Mrs. R. C. McBride.

Other survivors include a son Cull's, with Rev. Dr. W. W. McThomas, in Edmonton; one Pherson officiating. Burial will be brother, James, in Brunswick, in Colwood Burial Park.

Artists' Works Shown on Film

Magistrate Ill

All Not as Usual In Police Courts

All was not as usual in city and Saanich police courts yesterday.

Magistrate Henry C. Hall had to go home, ill, before the morning court sat. His place was taken by W. L. Ostler who is clerk of the court, but who also is a justice of the peace and since last November a stipendiary magistrate.

It was his first appearance on the bench since his appointment.

The result in the morning session was a bit confusing to some onlookers and participants. For the courtroom regulars it was a bit of a disappointment, for in 20 minutes they were back out in the raw wind, with court concluded.

There was good reason for the dispatch with which cases were handled.

Once a magistrate has accepted a plea in any case, he is "seized of" that case and must remain with it to its conclusion.

Since his position on the bench yesterday was temporary Magistrate Ostler necessarily remanded once more all cases in which Magistrate Hall had taken a plea.

For the same reason, he accepted no pleas of not guilty, which would automatically mean a future trial. One man indicated he would, and did, plead guilty, and that man Magistrate Ostler fined.

In Saanich court in the afternoon Magistrate A. I. Thomas sat for Magistrate Hall, and the same conditions held true.

'Fur-Bearing Pigs We Can Limit'

Even if cats have nine lives, they aren't much more durable than the question of limiting them in Victoria.

The question, finally disposed off, everyone thought, at city council's previous meeting, was revived in council yesterday.

At the previous meeting, council decided not to act on [illegible] number of adult cats per Victoria household be limited to three. Ald. J. Donald Smith said the regulation would require birth certificates for cats, so that their age could be determined, and would make Victoria the laughing-stock of Canada.

Yesterday council received a new petition from 11 persons against the number of cats being kept at 1729 Duchess. The petition suggested [illegible] confusing, a limit should be placed on cats of any age.

Mayor Percy Scurrah wondered how a limiting by-law could be enforced. He asked the city solicitor if the sanitary inspectors could deal with this sort of thing.

City Solicitor T. P. O'Grady said he doubted it. He also took the opportunity to tell council it had no specific powers to limit cats as to number—"just dogs and fur-bearing animals."

"Isn't a cat a fur-bearing animal?" asked Ald. Mooney.

"Not as far as the litigation of the act is concerned, in my opinion," said Mr. O'Grady.

"Well, there are a great many coats made of cats' fur," said Ald. Mooney.

(Later in debate he also observed that the numbers of pigs could be limited, and wanted to know if pigs were considered fur-bearing animals. He received no answer but laughter.)

Eventually council referred the whole matter to the health and welfare committee, in consultation with the city solicitor, again.

Wenner-Gren Gift

Left His Wallet In Other Pants?

VANCOUVER (CP) — Philanthropist Dr. Axel Wenner-Gren made a token $25,000 donation to University of B.C. Wednesday—and then remembered he didn't have the money with him.

"One of my aides will attend to it," he told undergraduates. "But if he doesn't, I would like you to contact Mr. Bernard Gore (managing director of the Wenner-Gren foundations)."

The 75-year-old multi-millionaire likened himself to a "father garrulous with pride when he talks about his children" as he spoke of his foundations.

The first of these was the Samfundet, founded in Stockholm in 1936, for the support of science and the humanities. In 1939 the Institute for Experimental Biology and Physiological Chemistry was founded followed later in the year by a metabolic research institute. He founded in 1941 the foundation for Anthropological Research in New York, the Cardiovascular Research Laboratory in 1953, and later the Wenner-Gren Centre for Integration of Scientific Research in Stockholm.

Earlier Dr. Wenner-Gren told a Kiwanis Club luncheon:

"Automation will open the doors to a new industrial revolution. I am fully convinced that B.C. . . . with its tremendous natural resources presents a greater opportunity . . . than any other country . . .

". . . If I was younger, I'd be up among those hills myself."

Saskatoon Takes Lead

Vikings Beaten in Overtime As Powerful Attack Checked

SASKATOON—Victoria College Vikings suffered their first setback in their bid for the western Canada junior men's basketball championship here last night when they dropped a 49-46 decision to Saskatoon YMCA Celtics in the opening game of their best-of-three semi-final series.

Vikings, who averaged about 60 points a game in the regular season, were far off their usual shooting form last night. Tom English, Vikings former high school all-star guard and team captain, was high scorer with nine points. Bob Tomlinson, the Victoria squad's high-scoring bucketman, could manage only eight points.

FOULS HURT

Vikings played the latter part of the second half minus the services of guard Eddie Kowalyk, who fouled out. Both English and Tomlinson left the game with five fouls during the overtime period.

The game was a tight one from the start. The teams were tied, 18-18, at half time, and it was 29-29 when the third quarter ended. Vikings pulled ahead by six points at one stage of the fourth quarter, but the Celtics came scrapping back to take a 39-37 lead. Tomlinson scored a field goal with a minute left to force the overtime.

Victoria picked up a point on a free throw at the start of the overtime, but the Celtics, led by Bob Bell with five points, came on to take and hold their three-point margin.

Bell was the leading scorer for the Celtics with 13 points for the night. Bruce Fothergill, Gerry Beaumer and Ken Tidsbury added eight apiece.

Second game of the series will be played here tonight, with the third, if necessary, scheduled Saturday night. Winner meets Winnipeg for the Western Canada title in Winnipeg next week.

Scorers follow:

Victoria—McCollum 8, Skillings 3, Brousseau, Kowalyk 8, Flynn 3, Rossington, Cotter 7, Lorer, English 9, Tomlinson 8. Total 46.

Saskatoon—Lamb, Jacobson 4, Fothergill 8, Nichols 2, Bell 13, Kew 4, Beaumer 8, Tidsbury 8, Dean 2. Total 49.

Canyens Eliminate Leafs But Still Trail by Five

Montreal Canadiens eliminated Toronto Maple Leafs from the Stanley Cup playoffs with an 8-4 victory at Montreal Forum last night, but failed to gain any ground in their last-ditch battle to overtake Detroit Red Wings in the National Hockey League race.

Wings edged Chicago Black Hawks, 3-2, at Detroit, and assured the Hawks of their fourth straight season in the NHL basement. Detroit needs only two more victories, or one win and a Montreal loss, to clinch its eighth league championship in nine years.

Last Night's Scores: Toronto 4, at Montreal 8. Chicago 2, at Detroit 3.

Next games Saturday: Boston at Montreal, New York at Toronto.

At Montreal, the Canadiens were celebrating "Floyd Curry Night." Curry, playing his 555th game with the Habs, was presented with hundreds of gifts, including a new automobile. "The honest blocker" is playing his 10th season in the NHL.

The 14,356 fans saw one of the highest-scoring games of the season. The total of 12 goals tied the season high set last month by New York and Chicago.

Bernie Geoffrion scored twice for the Canadiens, while Jean Beliveau picked up one goal and three assists. Maurice Richard, Doug Harvey, Henri Richard, Andre Pronovost and Donnie Marshall each scored once. For the Leafs, it was Tod Sloan, George Armstrong, Tim Horton and Sid Smith.

The win enabled the Habs to break a second-place deadlock with Boston Bruins, who play at Montreal Saturday night. Detroit remained five points ahead of the Habs.

The battle for the Vezina Trophy, awarded to the goalie who allow the least number of goals in a season, reached a deadlock last night. Glenn Hall of the Wings and Jacques Plante of Montreal have each allowed 150.

At Detroit, the Wings checked a last-period rally by the Hawks to win after piling up a 3-0 lead.

The Hawks pulled within a single goal in the third period on goals by Jack McIntyre and Eddie Litzenberger. They pulled goalie Al Rollins in the final 28 seconds, but failed to get a shot at Hall.

Johnny Bucyk opened scoring for Detroit with a long slap shot in the first period, and Gordie Howe added his 42nd goal of the season. Lorne Ferguson made it 3-0 in the second period.

Hungry Cougars Face Amerks Here Tonight

Victoria Cougars put their five-game home-ice winning streak on the line against Seattle Americans tonight as they begin the stretch run for the final playoff berth in the western division of the Western Hockey League.

Cougars have five games left to play, and still hold a one-point edge over Vancouver Canucks in their month-long battle for third place. Both the Canucks and Cougars play Seattle and New Westminster twice, and meet for their final game in Victoria Monday.

However, the Cougars would appear to have a slight advantage over Vancouver in that they play three of their remaining games at home, while the Canucks are on the road for three of five. Victoria has played some of its best hockey of the season in recent home games.

Tonight, the Canucks host New Westminster while the Cougars are taking on the league-leading Americans at Memorial Arena.

FULL STRENGTH

Coach Colin Kilburn said last night that the Cougars should be at full strength tonight, although a couple of the players were slightly under the weather yesterday.

"Ray Powell was in bed with the 'flu and Bill Davidson has been troubled by swollen feet," Kilburn stated. "But I don't think it's very serious, and they both should be ready for Seattle."

Kilburn also announced that he has a new player working out with the club. He is Gordie Matheson, 19-year-old junior amateur defenceman from Melville Millionaires, who joined the Cougars along with Don Hamilton, their spare goalie.

"Matheson has been looking pretty good in workouts, and there is a strong possibility that he'll be seeing action in some of our remaining games, although he won't play tonight," Kilburn said.

Seattle has had a good season against the Cougars, winning eight games and tying three of their 14 meetings. However, the Cougars downed the Americans, 6-2, in their last appearance at Memorial Arena.

Americans have four players in the top 10 of the league-scoring race. Centre Guyle Fielder has a record-setting 112 points on 30 goals and 82 assists; Eddie Dorohoy has 26 goals and 52 assists; Ray Kinasewich has collected 41 goals, high for the league, and 36 assists, and Val Fonteyne has 24 goals and 38 assists.

Game time tonight is 8.30.

Cumberland Scores Again; Esquimalt, Bays Both Win

VANCOUVER—Cumberland, Vancouver Island high school champions, chalked up their second straight victory in the B.C. high school basketball championships yesterday by blasting Chilliwack, 71-32, at the University of British Columbia gym.

The Island champions, who opened the four-day tournament with an easy victory over Prince George, stunned the large crowd by the ease in which they rolled over the Chilliwack club. Chilliwack had upset defending champion Lester Pearson in the opening round.

Esquimalt, which can finish no higher than eighth, stayed off elimination by edging Kelowna, 41-38. Dave Shaw and Jim Whalen scored 12 and 11 points, respectively, for the winners.

Hitters Break Loose; Pirates Finally Lose

By The Associated Press

The pitchers are supposed to be far ahead of the hitters at this early stage of the spring training baseball season, but you'd never know it the way home runs were flying in both the citrus and cactus circuits Thursday.

The Brooklyn-Milwaukee and Kansas City-Philadelphia exhibition games produced six homers each, with Braves' Andy Pafko and Bobby Morgan of Philadelphia delivering the key clouts.

KEY BLOWS

Pafko walloped a pinch-hit homer with the bases filled as Milwaukee scored eight runs in the fourth inning to outlast the Dodgers 12-9. Jim Pendleton, Hank Aaron and Frank Torre also belted home runs for the Braves while Don Zimmer and Gil Hodges connected for Brooklyn.

Morgan's second homer of the game in the ninth inning gave Philadelphia 7-6 victory over Kansas City. Bob Bowman also homered for Philadelphia, and Ned Garver, Harry Simpson and Gus Zernial homered for the As.

Jim Rivera and Jim Landis slugged a pair of four-baggers apiece and Earl Battey smashed one to pace Chicago White Sox to a 12-2 triumph over Washington.

A pair of two-run homers by George Crowe and Art Schult who continued his fine hitting, led Cincinnati to a 7-4 victory over Pittsburgh as the Pirates suffered their first setback after winning five straight.

A pinch single by rookie Joe Durham in the eighth inning enabled Baltimore to shade Giants 7-6.

Cleveland squeezed out a 9-8 verdict over the Cubs in 13 innings with each team using five pitchers. Among the 33 hits in the game, three were homers—by Indians' Billy Harrell and Chicago's Walt Moryn and George Freese.

The fence-busters took a back seat as New York Yankees edged Detroit 3-2 and Boston Red Sox blanked St. Louis Cards 4-0 without a homer being struck.

BECOMING GOLF BUGS

Entries Climb to 61 For City Club 'Spiel

A total of 61 entries have been received for the fifth annual Victoria Curling Club bonspiel March 18-23, and at least 70 rinks are expected to be signed up before entries close Saturday.

Club officials have extended the deadline for entries until Saturday at noon to allow Navy personnel presently on ship duty more time to get a rink in the competition. There are five Navy rinks entered to date.

Other outside entries include one from the Army, one from Penticton, Chilliwack, Parksville and Nanaimo. Duncan and Port Alberni have four rinks each entered, and five Vancouver foursomes have also entered.

Draw will be made Saturday afternoon and will be published in Sunday morning's Daily Colonist.

Six events are slated in the spiel—two primary, two secondary and two tertiary. The primary events are the Dominion Hotel grand challenge and the Colonist challenge.

Anglers Name Dates For Season Derbies

Victoria-Saanich Inlet Anglers' Association officials yesterday released the list of derby dates that will keep angling enthusiasts busy during the summer months in Saanich Inlet.

Biggest event of the season will be the association's ladder derby fishoff Aug. 18. The 10-week qualifying period for the final fishoff in which 500 anglers are eligible, will start May 19 and end July 28.

The only major change this season is that there will be no derby for anglers who weigh in fish during the qualifying period but who fail to earn qualifying berths during weekly competition.

The annual Solarium Derby is scheduled July 21, the junior derby has been set for Aug. 25 and the Cerebral Palsy coho event will be held Oct. 12 and 13.

Chinook Club will stage derbies on Dominion Day, July 1, and Aug. 4, which will begin at daylight and wind up at 3 p.m. All other derbies will start at 6 a.m. and end at 3 p.m.

B.C. Quartet Takes First Legion 'Spiel

WINNIPEG (CP) — British Columbia won the first annual Canadian Legion curling championship Thursday with a record of seven wins and one loss in round-robin play, defeating New Brunswick 17-9 on the last draw.

Joe McKinnon skipped the winning rink from Kamloops in the three-day competition which drew nine rinks from all provinces but Newfoundland. Other members were Russ Bowles, Bus Ellis and Don Parkin.

Manitoba and Saskatchewan wound up in a second-place tie with each having six wins and two losses.

Ontario's record was 5-3, New Brunswick and Alberta were 4-4, Quebec was 3-5, Nova Scotia 1-7 and luckless Prince Edward Island 0-8.

Saskatchewan and British Columbia were tied in the standings at the beginning of the day's three draws. British Columbia drew a bye in the first draw and all but clinched the title by beating Saskatchewan 13-6 in the eighth round.

VIEWS OF SPORT

By Red Smith

CLEARWATER, Fla.—This is the winter home of baseball's great middle class, the ham in the National League sandwich, the immovable, unshakable, unsinkable, unchangeable Phillies who always win half their games, always lose half, always strive and struggle and scramble and scuffle, and remain as firmly rooted as the statue of William Penn on Philadelphia's City Hall. Birdie Tebbetts, the Cincinnati manager, had been talking about them before an exhibition game in Tampa.

"You guys scoff at that team," he said, "but they're always there in third or fourth or fifth place, and they always give us hell. I'll bet they get shut out less than any other team in the league. We won eight of our first nine games with them last year, and were going for our ninth when bloop hits started dropping and they got six runs and beat us. 'We'll never beat them again,' I thought, and we didn't for a long time. We were leading 'em, eight games to one, and the next thing we knew we were eight and eight."

Now Mayo Smith was sitting on the bench patiently answering tourists' questions. He spoke of the remarkable comeback of Curt Simmons, the sore-armed pitcher who shook off his miseries last year and won 15 games, with one mid-season splurge when he pitched seven complete games in a row and won them all. He talked of Granny Hamner finished as a shortstop because of a damaged shoulder and starting out now as a pitcher.

Mister Roberts

"Has anybody asked the big question?" said a newcomer to the group. "How about Mr. Roberts?"

"I wish he was the biggest of my worries," the manager said. "Look at him out there now. He's in shape, he's ready, he's able. Last year was pretty rugged for him."

"It must have been," a visitor said. "He won a paltry 19 games." In the six seasons prior to 1956, Robin Roberts won 138 games, never fewer than 20 in a summer, never more than 28.

"I'm serious," Mayo said. "He lost 18 and he had some rough times, for him. He'll be fine, though, and our pitching should be real good — Robin and Simmons and Jack Meyer and Harvey Haddix and Jim Hearn. We've got some young fellows who can throw hard and who we think are ready to give us the strong relief pitching we haven't had. Angelo LiPetri and Dick Farrell and Seth Morehead were good in Miami last year and Jack Sanford came out of the service with a lot of stuff."

Thrice-Told Story

With regard to other positions, the Philadelphia story has not changed except for the worse. With Hamner eliminated, the only shortstops present are Bobby Morgan, a .197 hitter last season, and Roy Smalley, .226. The Phils hope to trade for a shortstop, probably could get Alex Grammas from the Reds for Willy Jones or a good pitcher, but no deal is imminent.

Stan Lopata, the catcher who also plays first base, is back behind the plate with a powerful young critter named Ed Bouchee getting top attention at first base. It's still Tom Kazanski and Jones at second and third. Rip Repulski and Richie Ashburn in left and centre, with Bob Bowman, a rookie, nominated for right field if he can hit.

"Two years ago," Mayo said, "we lost 13 straight just after the season started. Every day we found a new way to lose, unbelievable ingenuity. I knew that couldn't happen again, and we started last year by beating the Dodgers, beat them again in Jersey City, then split two with the Giants, so we were three and one."

He laughed hollowly. "A losing streak like that couldn't happen again, and it didn't. Starting with our fifth game last year, we lost only nine in a row. Then we won 11 straight."

Pattern of Victory

Roberts was taking it easy. He had pitched three scoreless innings against the Reds Monday and before the game Tebbetts had made a speech about him.

"Once a week all summer," he had said, "I hold a lecture on pitching, nobody admitted but my pitchers and catchers. I harp on the importance of pitching in a pattern, in the groove. In the groove, in the groove. Now here came Roberts to work against us, a guy who'd never thrown a slow curve or a change of pace in his life.

"First inning he retired three batters on slow curves. After four innings he was ahead 2 to 0, and our guys were standing up there waiting for the fast one and he threw nothing but slow curves and changes. I was on the bench praying, 'Come on, you pup, throw one fast ball. Break that pattern.' He beat us, 2 to 0, and not once did he throw a hard ball, not one pitch except the slow curve and the change. He was in trouble in the ninth, and he still eased it up there, the slow curve.

"After the game I said, 'That was one of the greatest exhibitions of pitching I have ever seen, unless Roberts has a sore arm.' There was nothing wrong with his arm, or his head."

Club Owners Face . . . . . . Big Spring Loss

Spring Training Proves Big Business

By JOHN F. SEMBOWER

CHICAGO, Ill. (NANA)—Training camps are baseball's symptom of spring fever, and they will cost club owners from $30,000 to $125,000 each this year.

That's a far cry from the days when Cap Anson inaugurated the spring schedule by taking his Chicago White Sox to Hot Springs, Ark., at a total cost of $1,500. The colorful Anson screamed at the high cost of trimming "beer bellies" from his roughnecks, whose average pay for the season was $2,000 back in 1886.

With the memories of the world's series still fresh in our minds the training season opened last week. But that is nothing compared to the gun-jumping days of Col. Larry MacPhail, who took his New York Yankees on a Central American junket early in February soon after the end of the Second World War.

The colonel's expedition brought about reforms when players, who receive no salary until the season opens, began to moan pitifully. Now every player draws a $25 weekly expense account, and nobody has to report until the end of February although there are always early birds, anxious to unlimber their cheque-signing arms.

Florida, which hosts 12 clubs, and Arizona, with the other four, now monopolize the big league show in spring. This cuts training expenses, particularly insofar as travel rates—which used to cost more than $12,000—are concerned.

Brooklyn, with a $250,000 tab, tops all major league clubs. Their Vero Beach, Fla., operation, started by Branch Rickey, can accommodate 600 rookies—but all Dodger minor league affiliates train there.

The perennial world champion Yankees spend a little more than $50,000 each spring, with an incidental $15,000 thrown in. But most Yankee farm clubs work out at individual sites.

Some expenses are recouped in exhibition "grapefruit league" games. There are 230 set up by the majors, of which 175 are inter-league contests.

Still, the clubs figure to lose from $20,000 to $40,000 before they swing north for the serious business of spring, summer and early autumn.

It used to be that southland's resort cities dangled money before major league clubs to bring them down as tourist attractions. Those days, by and large, are gone. The unseasonal sun is attraction enough.

Most owners are philosophical about spring training costs. Walter O'Malley of the Dodgers says that it coincides with advance ticket sales and that the discoveries of a hot rookie can boom things along.

There is always the chance that a miracle will happen. Mickey Mantle, for example, was an 18-year-old shortstop up from a Class C club when he brought fire to the old eyes of Casey Stengel.

On the other hand, there is Ty Cobb. He hit .420 the year that he held out until opening day.

Nanaimo Rink Clinches Title In Western Curling Playoffs

SASKATOON—A Nanaimo rink skipped by Marg Fuller captured the Western Canada women's curling championship here Thursday afternoon to give British Columbia its second straight title in the annual double round-robin competition.

Although losing its first game in the four-day competition Thursday night, the Vancouver Island quartet had the title wrapped up with still three rounds of curling remaining.

Mrs. Fuller won her first six games to pull far ahead of Alberta and Manitoba.

Handing the B.C. rink its first defeat was the Manitoba entry, which scored an easy 13-6 decision in the eighth round with the pressure off the Nanaimo quartet. Earlier in the day, British Columbia edged past Saskatchewan, 10-8, and blasted Quebec, 16-7, in a seventh-round match that clinched the title for Mrs. Fuller.

Today's final two rounds will decide the runner-up position. Manitoba and Alberta are tied for second place with 3-3 records. Saskatchewan is third with two victories in six starts and Quebec, playing by invitation this year, is last with only one victory in six games.

FINE SHOTMAKING

Mrs. Fuller, who won her first B.C. championship this year although a provincial finalist for four straight years, has curled brilliantly during the bonspiel here but has had fine support from third Mrs. Pat Good, second Mrs. Sylvia Koster and lead Mrs. Edna Quinney.

The Nanaimo rink got a tussle from Saskatchewan in yesterday's sixth round but managed two in the 11th end after the prairie rink had pulled to within one, 8-7, with a four-ender on the 10th.

Quebec provided little opposition with the winners curling superbly and Mrs. Fuller capping the great display by drawing to the button on last rock.

Against Manitoba, the B.C. entry was blanked through the first seven ends as Manitoba ran up a 13-0 lead.

Remember When:

The Manitoba and Saskatchewan hockey associations renounced seven-man hockey and two 30-minute halves 39 years ago today. After seeing Kitchener defeat Ypres, Manitoba champions, in the Allen Cup final the western officials were convinced that the six-man game adopted four years previously in the east was superior.

Rocky's Night Club Act Blocked by Ex-Manager

Rocky Marciano's proposed career as a night club performer was blocked Thursday night by Al Weill, Marciano's manager during his ring reign.

A night club in Chicago announced Marciano, retired heavyweight boxing champion, will not make his debut Tuesday night in an act headlining comedian Jimmy Durante.

David Halper, club owner, said contracts were signed three weeks ago with Marciano and Durante, but without Weill's consent. Then Weill notified him Marciano could not appear in the act.

Halper said he does not know Weill's present relationship with Marciano, but assumed Weill is serving as Marciano's business manager since his retirement from boxing. Earlier reports had it that Marciano had severed all connections with Weill since his ring retirement.

Winnipeg Loses Horse Racing

WINNIPEG (CP) — Horse racing, a major sports attraction in Winnipeg for the last 35 years, folded Thursday.

Shareholders of the Manitoba Jockey Club, which has organized racing meets here since 1922, voted to liquidate the club after hearing the directors' annual report in which president Anna Speers blamed "discriminatory taxation" by the Manitoba government for the demise of the sport.

A decision against liquidation at the annual meeting Dec. 13, 1925, has been sold and torn down to make way for a business site.

Before the death in 1955 of R. James Speers, his corporation bought 268 acres in the fourth largest city as Polo Park, scene of racing here since June 13, 1925, has been sold and torn down to make way for a business site.

Before the death in 1955 of R. James Speers, his corporation bought 268 acres in the Winnipeg area and obtained plans for a new racing plant.

In her report to the shareholders meeting, Mrs. Speers, his daughter, said construction plans were curtailed because the government "refused to be realistic about lowering its 10 per cent pari mutuel tax.

HEALTHFUL WAY TO STOP THE CONSTIPATION HABIT

KELLOGG'S ALL-BRAN WITH MILK - NATURE'S GREAT FOOD COMBINATION

Aid to regularity enjoyed by millions

Good food bulk in effective cereal form

Doesn't this make sense to you? If you suffer from the constipation habit (often brought on by lack of dietary bulk), the way to go about correcting the condition is to restore natural food bulk to your diet.

This is the simple, everyday reason why Kellogg's All-Bran has given effective relief to millions of people. Even to scores who struggled with irregularity for years.

If this sounds like you, wouldn't you be wiser to put your faith in nature and try All-Bran? Kellogg's—the original ready-to-eat bran cereal with all the benefits of whole bran left in. Just a morning serving provides all the bulk you need daily.

All-Bran has an old-fashioned bran muffin flavour that lots of folks prefer over any other cereal. And a single bowl served with hot or cold milk gives you essential nutritional values as well.

We recommend that you eat half a cup of All-Bran with milk, every day for 10 days. Try it. See if you can't put yourself back on the track this safe, pleasant, inexpensive way.

All-Bran must satisfy you on all counts or you may return the empty carton and get twice what you paid. That's a promise from Kellogg's of Canada, London, Ontario.

Annuity Premiums Now Deductible

OTTAWA (CP)—The government Thursday night announced it will allow an immediate income tax reduction of up to 10 per cent for all Canadians buying annuities or paying into other retirement savings plans.

The savings promotion scheme, outlined in the budget, will be of particular benefit to doctors, lawyers and other self-employed persons who previously were unable to deduct payments made to their own form of pension planning.

But it also will be of benefit to wage earners, generally, allowing them to carry two pension plans: Those in which employers and employees contribute and an additional one which the wage earner may take out on his own, perhaps through an insurance company or other institution.

In fact, the deduction may be applied to some forms of insurance-savings plans already in existence, provided that the part of the premium paid for the savings or annuity can be separated from the part paid for insurance protection.

Finance Minister Harris said in announcing the plan: "Premiums in 1957 paid under new contracts for retirement annuities which conform to the conditions just set forth will be eligible for income tax deduction.

"Such new annuity contracts may be separate or they may be in combination with a new insurance contract.

"In the latter case, the appropriate part of the combined premium for annuity and insurance will be eligible for deduction from income for tax purposes if the premium receipt shows separately the part of the premium paid for the annuity alone.

Mr Harris said he will take up with life insurance companies the question of whether premiums can be separated and to have certain contracts rearranged so the insured or insured person can receive the endowment part of the contract in the form of an approved retirement annuity.

At present, employees who contribute toward is in authorized employer employee pension scheme can deduct then payments from their income tax assessments.

Now the employee may carry two plans and claim tax deductions for both. But the maximum he can deduct is 10 per cent of his income up to a maximum of $1,500. Others can also deduct the 10 per cent up to the maximum of $2,500.

Mr. Harris explained:

"If, for example, an employee now is contributing six per cent of his earnings under a pension plan, he may, on his own account, use another four per cent of his earned income to purchase a retirement annuity supplementing the pension being built up in his employment always subject to the maximum of $1,500."

There are some strings attached. Persons taking out the annuities cannot redeem them for cash or make any loan against them. The annuity must be payable in equal annual amounts for the full life of the taxpayer and it may provide on his death for annual payments to his widow, but not to strangers, or charities or even children.

"The annuity may provide for a term certain up to 15 years. It may be arranged to commence at such time as the taxpayer wishes but its commencement may not be postponed beyond the age of 70."

The benefits when they are paid out to the annuity carrier on his retirement will of course be taxable. But in most cases, the pensioner's income will be a lot less than his earnings at the time he made payments and his tax payments would be down sharply.

In some cases the pensioner's income may be so small that he would not be subjected to any income tax at all.

* * *

The granting of tax relief on pensions, and retirement savings plans to everyone, is regarded as a progressive and wise step by E. E. Pearkman, vice-president of the Victoria Bar Association. "This removes an inequality that has existed for some time."

Premier Bennett called it the "chewing gum budget," but the federal budget was fine with gum-blower Dick Munn, 1552 Burton. It repeals the special excise tax of 10 per cent on chewing gum, soft drinks, candy, chocolate and confectionery. — (Colonist photo by Jim Ryan.)

Boost Late, Little

Increased pensions for war veterans and their dependents were warranted but not as big as expected, veterans' spokesman said last night.

Carl Faliss, chairman of the Pro Patria branch, criticized the increases as being too late and too little.

"The big trouble is that they always come late and they are no sooner in effect than inflation has caught up with them," he said.

OR WORSE

"If costs go up before the vets get the increase the raises only put them back where they were before — or worse."

Cecil B. Lewendale, zone commander of the Canadian Legion: "Increases are not as large as expected for veterans. We asked for larger increases, but every little counts."

WARRANTED

C. N. Beattie, administrator of the Veterans' Hospital: "I think the increases are warranted—they are certainly in line with the increased cost of living and increases in industrial pay."

Fred Brooks, 2838 Colquitz: a disabled veteran: "We are thankful for what we get, but I think we should have a cost-of-living bonus."

J. F. Carey, 505 Admirals, an active worker of the Canadian Legion and a DVA worker in hospitals: "I am greatly pleased that the government has recognized the efforts of the Canadian Legion and raised the pension. It will be greatly welcomed by veterans. It is what we have been fighting for at Canadian Legion conferences for years."

War Pensions Go Up July 1

Compensation paid under the DVA Pensions Act to disability pensioners, war widows and dependents' parents will be increased July 1 this year. Here is a comparison, on maximums only, of the old monthly rates with the new:

	Present Rate	New Rate
Single pensioner	$125	$150
Married pensioner	170	200
Pensioned widow	100	115
Dependent parent	75	90
Two dependent parents	100	115

Disability pensions assessed at varying rates from 5 to 100 per cent will be proportionately boosted.

Disability pensioners who are totally disabled, helpless and in addition in need of attendance will be assisted. The present maximum award will be increased from $1,400 to $1,800 per annum.

The maximum monthly rate of allowance for recipients with married status will be upped from $108 to $120.

In addition, the annual permissive income ceilings—outside money which the recipient is allowed to earn—will be raised from $840 to $960 for single recipients and from $1,440 to $1,620 for those receiving married rates.

$7 from 10 to 12; and $8 from 13 to 16.

Under the new arrangements the government will pay parents $6 a month for all children up to 10, and $8 for those between 10 and 16.

The new payments could not be put into effect before Sept 1, Mr. Harris said, because of the clerical task of revising and recalculating the cheques for 2,500,000 families.

OTHER INCOME TAX DEDUCTIONS TO BE ALLOWED WERE:

1. Payments to a nursing home for the care of an invalid or retarded child.

2. Contributions toward low-cost housing projects for elderly people.

3. If a corporation or an individual makes a greater contribution to charity than allowed as a tax deduction in one year, the excess may be carried forward to the next year.

4. Canadian teachers who are required to pay $250 of their own salaries to teachers coming from other Commonwealth countries on an exchange basis, will be allowed a deduction in computing their taxable income.

5. The present requirement that membership dues in a professional society, in order to be deductible for an employee, must be paid by him as a condition of his employment, will be eliminated.

6. The maximum that a dependent may earn without losing his status as a dependent is raised from $750 a year to $950.

Mr. Harris said he had not been able to prepare a new succession duty act for submission to parliament this spring, as he had hoped, but he was proposing an amendment to the existing law to provide for an outright 50 per cent reduction in federal rates in a province which continues to impose succession duties.

This was necessary, he said, to carry out an undertaking given the provinces in recent federal-provincial tax rental agreement negotiations.

Eight Provinces Rent Tax Fields

OTTAWA (CP) — All provinces except Ontario and Quebec have indicated they will continue to rent out their direct tax fields to the federal government in return for annual payments for the next five years.

Sales Tax Cut

OTTAWA (CP)—The auto trader was recognized by Finance Minister Harris in his budget Tuesday night.

His changes in application of the 10 per cent sales tax included one to provide tax exemption on 75 per cent of the cost of traders purchased for use as homes effective Thursday night.

Martin Brands Pension Boost 'Nauseous Act'

Provincial Health Minister Eric Martin told the B.C. legislature last night that "a nauseous and tragic act" happened in Ottawa with the announcement of the "puffing $6 increase" in old-age pensions.

The broadside fired at the federal government precipitated a melee of charges and counter-charges over alleged pension responsibilities with shouts of "politicking" coming from every direction.

Opposition Leader Robert Strachan said near the close of the raucous sitting that he was "very unhappy" about the government's attitude toward pensions.

The health minister said there would be "tears in increasing anxiety and utter despair in the hearts of all elderly citizens."

He said there would be no reduction in the cost of living bonus to pensioners and that those who receive the $6 increase will receive the $6 increase.

Leo Nimsick (CCF—Cranbrook) said the provincial government should "clean its own doorstep" before taking the federal government to task on pensions.

NOT SURPRISED

John Squire (CCF—Alberni) said he was not surprised by the federal budget. "Just disappointed."

Discussing old age assistance and disabled persons' pensions which costs must be shared at present between senior governments the health minister said B.C. has already agreed to pay the $ matching Ottawa's $6 hike.

This, he said, will cost the province about $20,000 a year.

The two-member Liberal group faced heavy away unscathed in the CCF attack.

Gordon Dowding (CCF—Burnaby) pointed at George Gregory of Victoria, stating that the Liberal member "is battling between" shame in the smallness of the pension increase and equal delight in the fact there was an increase at all."

"This government talks about insults to elder citizens," said Mr. Nimsick. "I say the $2.50 bonus received by civil servants at Christmas time is an insult."

The health minister recommended boosting the basic pension to $60. Both the province and Ottawa should put in another $20 to bring it to $100 a month.

Bridge Saving $6,000

The federal government decided to remove the 10 per cent sales tax from municipal purchases of structural steel for bridges will save Victoria several thousand dollars on the Point Ellice Bridge.

Mayor Percy Scurrah who had made special efforts in Ottawa to have the federal sales tax removed from municipal purchases said: "That's fine!" when informed of the tax exemption last night.

City Engineer J. C. Garnett estimated the savings at around $6,000.

Mothers—Welcome Extra $1

The announcement of family allowance increases in the federal budget was quite welcomed and disapproved by Victoria residents last night.

"Personally I'm pleased to receive another dollar a month, the increase doesn't make up for the increase in costs," said Mrs. E. Wells, 618 Fayter.

Mrs. J. A. McKinty, of 3941 Cedar Hill Crossroad, said she would have preferred to see the government use the family allowance increase for increases to the old age pension.

"The $1 will be a help in buying clothing," Mrs. McKinty said.

Dave Woodward, director of the family and childrens service, said the increase was expected and welcomed.

A civil servant father of four and children said he was "sorry to see an increase in family allowances.

"I believe in them for medical purposes. It is a form of inflation."

Grants Boosted

OTTAWA (CP)—Subsidies paid to the Atlantic provinces under the Maritime Freight Rates Act will be boosted from the present 30 per cent to 40 per cent, Finance Minister Walter Harris announced. A full review of the problem also will be made.

Concession Lifts Earning Penalty

An important budget concession is the raising of the limit from $750 to $950 in the amount certain dependents may earn without depriving the taxpayer of his right to claim $400 dependent's allowance.

This will affect many taxpayers who support old age pensioners for whom the increased pension allowance might bring them over the $750 limit.

It will also help the family with some children take summer jobs. These youngsters, who may be college and university students, can now earn the extra $200 without penalty.

With wages at the present levels many university students were able to earn over $750 during the vacation months.

Many of them stopped at this level rather than lose the $400 allowance for their guardians. The extra $200 now allowable will remove this difficulty for the majority.

Ottawa View on Pensions Unrealistic, Bennett Says

Premier Bennett feels Ottawa should have raised old age pensions by $20 a month at least.

He made this comment yesterday after learning the federal budget "most disappointing" and "completely unrealistic."

"Six dollars a month is totally inadequate," he stated. "It is a most disappointing budget not only for our old-age pensioners but for our workers and business men alike."

A reporter asked whether B.C. would consider raising the cost-of-living bonus for pensioners in view of the small increase.

"Unless there is a change in the federal government's view we will have to have another look, he replied. But I think the people will take care of it."

This was a reference to the forthcoming federal election.

He said he "hoped" there would be a revision in the federal thinking.

Premier Bennett said the pension should be a basic $60 with each province allowed to provide an additional $20 to be matched dollar for dollar by the federal government.

This would give pensioners $100 a month in B.C.

At present the pension is $40 from Ottawa and a $20-a-month cost-of-living bonus from the provincial government.

Leading Canadians Rap 'Mean', 'Trivial' Budget

VANCOUVER (CP)—Ralph Coles, president of the Old-Age Pensioners' Association of B.C., said he was "bitterly disappointed" with the $6 monthly increase for pensioners announced in the federal budget.

"At least $20 was required," he said. "This is a most meagre offering. Why the federal government continues to let the old people suffer in silence, beats me."

The president said "From the day Ottawa started handling pensions in 1927, they have made a mess of it."

Mr. Coles said his organization will also certainly ask Victoria to take a further look at pensions in B.C. "seeing that Ottawa has been so mean."

TORONTO (CP)—J. N. T. Bulman of Winnipeg, president of the Canadian Manufacturers' Association, Thursday night described the federal budget as "a sop to the young a tip of the hat to the old and nothing for the producer."

"The finance minister's housekeeping plan for the next 12 months," Mr. Bulman continued, "plainly indicates the government's paternalistic attitude that Canadians are not to be trusted to use their own earnings wisely. While its tight monetary policy forces the nation's producers to tighten their belts it loosens its own still another notch."

OTTAWA (CP)—J. M. Macdonnell, opposition financial critic, Thursday night expressed disappointment over the "trivial" measure of tax relief provided by Finance Minister Harris in his federal budget.

The reductions amounting to $126,000,000 by a variety of sales and other non-income taxes was not a "responsible action."

High taxes resulted in high prices and the minister had given no real reason why it was not reducing them. The minister apparently had convinced himself that "the federal tax rate doesn't need any consideration."

WINDSOR, Ont. (CP)—J. Hogan, vice-president of Chrysler Corp. of Canada said Thursday night "failure to reduce or eliminate the special 10 per cent excise tax on automobiles will be viewed with regret by a great many Canadians."

"This discriminatory tax is imposed in addition to a general sales tax of 10 per cent. It penalizes a large and economically vital industry and all those who purchase that industry's products."

TORONTO (CP)—Premier Leslie Frost of Ontario Thursday night criticized the new federal government budget for offering no relief to municipal and provincial taxpayers.

Australia Trade

OTTAWA (CP)—Canada has decided to seek a review of its trade treaty with Australia in the hope of reducing Australian curbs on Canadian goods.

Save and Invest in Canada

By HAROLD MORRISON

OTTAWA (CP) — Finance Minister Harris last night appealed to Canadians to save more to reduce Canada's need for foreign capital and to help smash the forces of inflation.

In proposing his preelection budget [illegible] production of goods and services produced may rise by another 5 per cent this year to a record $41,250,000,000.

But he warned that the estimated big new capital investment program of $8,500,000,000 will impose a "substantial strain on our resources."

"If we are to succeed in an effort of this magnitude we shall either have to save a good deal more or borrow it in abroad a good deal more than we did in 1956.

"I earnestly hope that Canadians will themselves save more and invest it profitably in their own future.

"There is a good possibility that inflationary [illegible] year.

He therefore strongly supported the Bank of Canada's credit restraints and "tight money" policy.

[illegible] Laborers also shared in the rise. Farm cash income was increased by bigger grain harvests and increased sales.

Home Loans May Ease

By HARRY YOUNG
Colonist Business Editor

A revival of the supply of bank money for NHA loans on a modified scale seems likely in the near future as a result of a meeting yesterday between the Bank of Canada and the [illegible]

[illegible] accepted a target [illegible] of $150,000,000 [illegible] purpose and [illegible] comparable with the [illegible] of Canada [illegible] James [illegible] Coyne [illegible] suggestion might be [illegible]

Mr. Coyne's proposal was that the chartered banks should turn their customers savings deposits into long term mortgages in order to maintain the supply of NHA money.

The new target of $150,000,000 is short of the $2,000,000,000 banks loaned in NHA mortgages in 1956 but it should be noted that much of the money was advanced in the early part of the year before the squeeze [illegible] tight.

Indeed since last September the availability of NHA mortgage loans at the banks has been extremely [illegible] bank president [illegible] that [illegible] at this point.

Other chartered banks have been making NHA [illegible] to [illegible] customers who were able to establish the necessity of such a loan.

With $150,000,000 divided between the banks on a Canada-wide basis, the new money will not go far, but it will at least be a step towards bringing back into operation a number of smaller contracting firms, whose business in the past few months has dropped to zero.

In a statement made last night the Bank of Canada said the $150,000,000 target was only a minimum.

It had assured the chartered banks that they could [illegible] sufficient funds to take care of this minimum and it [illegible] would not be necessary for banks to dispose of other [illegible] to provide the funds for mortgage loans.

The initial proposal made by Mr. Coyne last Monday stipulating the use of depositors' savings for long-term investments was [illegible] as one which required further study and discussion.

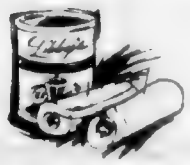
New "Easy-do" ideas

from Mary Hale Martin



Juice 'n' Roll-ups

A grand idea for a [illegible] pm "snack". Place [illegible] slices of white bread with crusts removed on waxed towel. Heat minutes. Spread with [illegible] cheese spread, [illegible] with toothpicks. Lay on broiler tray, den. Serve with chilled Libby's Tomato Juice—the kind that's so good. Libby's will refund DOUBLE your money if you're not delighted!

P.S. Libby's Tomato Juice is [illegible] at bedtime won't keep you awake!

Marvellous Meatless Meal

Idea's terrific! "Egg n Peas" Salad with grated cheese sandwiches. Here's how to make the salad: "thin" bottled salad dressing with a little milk, then add a dash of sugar and vinegar and salt and pepper. Peel and slice hard cooked eggs. Drain can of Libby's tender little Peas. Combine eggs and peas with dressing—use lots—this should be juicy—and chill. Serve in crisp lettuce cups with the hot cheese sandwiches. Really good! Libby's Peas are guaranteed the finest you've ever tasted—or DOUBLE your money back!

Garden Vegetable Aspic

Make Tomato Aspic, according to recipe on big can of Libby's Tomato Juice. When slightly thickened, fold in diced and cubed Libby's Mixed Vegetables. Pour in moulds and chill till very firm. Serve on salad greens. What an easy way to get 7 flavor-fresh vegetables without peeling!

Zesty Sandwich Filling

Mix any chopped canned meat with lots of Libby's Mustard and mayonnaise. Hearty, hot meat fillings with the tang of extra good Libby's Mustard. Have your Libby's Mustard on hand now!

Remember: The well-stocked kitchen has 2 bottles of Libby's Catsup—one for the table and one for your cooking centre. You'll use it to boost the flavour of so many things you cook. You'll use Libby's Catsup [illegible] made from mature [illegible] tomatoes, the richest tomato flavor!

School Budget Up; City Council Acts

Costs Climb Half Million

The Greater Victoria school board sent city council a $5,153,161 budget for 1957 yesterday, and council decided to hold a special meeting next week to study it.

The school board budget is $535,000 higher than last season

This is a terrific budget . . . I think we should have time to study it. There should be no hurry over such a matter, he said. He added that undoubtedly council would want to look into some items. I know of at least one I want to question.

[illegible]

John Gough, senior municipal school inspector, said that the 17,309 pupils now enrolled warranted increase by approximately 1,350 in September and that teachers, exclusive of night school which was self-supporting, would increase from 647 to 704 in September.

Chewing-Gum Budget Says Premier Bennett

By PETER BRUTON

BUDGET BLAST: Premier Bennett is always quick to coin a slick-sounding phrase to describe something he doesn't like. This was the case as soon as he heard details of the federal budget yesterday.

"Obviously a chewing-gum budget," the premier said.

'Firms Will Back City University'

Belief that industrial and commercial firms would be willing to contribute to a university in Victoria as soon as concrete plans were made was expressed by a number of Victoria business men yesterday.

Capt. R. G. Newell, who has been investigating the prospects of a university for the Victoria Chamber of Commerce, said that it was expected that the chamber would announce the personnel of a university committee at an early date.

TWO PLEASANT SCENTS— EVERGREEN or BLOSSOM

Glade is different. Many room deodorants mask offensive odours with a heavy perfume. But Glade, Johnson's new air freshener, is different. It literally destroys indoor odours instead of just covering them up.

Glade's own light fragrance disappears. In home "problem areas", like kitchen, nursery, bath, Glade destroys unpleasant odours, then its own light fragrance quickly disappears. Try Glade!

GLADE will not injure or stain fabrics or harm furniture surfaces.

'Monsters' Under Fire

[illegible]

The Great Man—for instance—is the story of a radio personality whose success has so many points in common with Arthur Godfrey that Al Morgan, its author, has had to deny repeatedly that Godfrey is the model.

[illegible]

Finally, cornered by Wallace Morgan admitted that the only person he knew who had been subjected to the pitiless scrutiny of the TV cameras, who—in his own phrase—"would be recognized on any street corner in America," and who still had not been changed for the worse by it, was Arlene Francis.

[illegible]

Elise Ferrer, who starred in as well as directed the movie, threw this whole idea that the successor had to turn into a monster out of the picture. The hero also makes a decision. Both these changes are enormous improvements. The TV industry, its box shows, is curiously abrupt and colorful. Explicit, the emotions become and tear jerking on family travel considerations by fairly trivial men—that's all in there and all, I'm afraid, true.

* * *

[illegible] fact as this random doodled alone is in the lower echelons it is and is all scrawl in the highest echelons of [illegible] is anything [illegible] to the [illegible] system.

"FOREST" CEDAR SIDING

WHAT IS FOREST SIDING?

Made of dry 1½" Stock 10 and 12 inch widths. FOREST Siding is a new type of Siding obtained from specially selected Cedar logs sawn to show the beauty and character of knots, burls, etc.

HOW IS IT GRADED?

IN SUPREME GRADE for home and buildings where a distinctive and pleasing appearance is desired enhanced by heavy shadow lines. Sound intergrown knots ranging in size from 2 inch to 6 inch widths to 4-inch in 12 inch widths add to the rustic appearance of this grade.

IN QUALITY GRADE intended for use on summer homes, barns or industrial buildings where lowest cost construction is required with pleasing rustic appearance. Each grade comes in two finishes rough faced or smooth faced. The rough face has a sawn finish and smooth face is planed.

WHAT ARE ITS QUALITIES?

"FOREST" Siding with its substantial thickness and greater wood volume adds to the structural strength and solidity of the building.

The design of "FOREST" Siding ensures a tight weather seal of the lap which, together with its thickness and flush-to-base principle, makes excellent material from the insulation standpoint.

"FOREST" Siding represents an economy to home-builders. Costing less than most other types of Siding the lap design ensures easy fitting and speedy application at less labor cost.

Surveys in Progress

Gas Due Here Early in 1958

Vancouver Islanders likely won't be using natural gas to heat their homes next winter, but it is probable that some big industrial concerns here will be using natural gas early in 1958.

Ralph Farris, president of Magna Pipelines, told The Vancouver Board of Trade last night that detailed market surveys now being carried out by his company in conjunction with the B.C. Electric should be ready for study in about two weeks.

He said British Insulated Callendar Cable Co. is now making tests on one-eighth-mile sections of the 1.65-inch inside-diameter flexible pipe it is proposed to use to bring the natural gas from Boundary Bay on the mainland to Crofton. Final testing will take place March 31.

Tentative plans call for three submarine pipelines to Vancouver Island with a 1,000-pound pressure station on the mainland and later a similar pressure station on Saltspring Island.

Mr. Farris expects to leave for England with other Magna Pipelines officials on April 21 to visit the British pipeline company for an on-the-spot check of the new type flexible piping and to make arrangements for the $3,000,000 submarine pipe-laying contract.

Mr. Farris thought that natural gas would not arrive here for use during the 1957 calendar year, but pointed out that laying of the pipe was such a speedy job it could be done at any season of the year.

The submarine pipe will be stored on British cable-laying ships and unwound from drums at a speed of about 3½ miles of pipe an hour.

He Said Yes But Not When

Works Minister W. N. Chant left the provincial government a temporary way out, research showed yesterday, when he made his campaign-speech pledge last September that the province would match any federal grant toward the new Point Ellice Bridge.

Mr. Chant didn't say when.

MATCHING GRANT

The federal government early last month approved a contribution of $108,000 toward the cost of the new bridge, and Mr. Chant has said two or three times since then that the provincial government has a matching grant under consideration.

"The provincial government will match anything the federal government will put up to help build the new bridge," he said at the opening of a bridge in the distant future.

"The bridge runs over tidewater so it should be the responsibility of the federal government to assist."

Mr. Chant left the provincial government no stop-loophole regarding a new courthouse for Victoria.

He promised at the same meeting that "by this time next year you will see the beginning of the new courthouse. It is not some day, but it will be in the long run."

'Lust for Life' Glows with Color

They Stick to Facts

By BRUCE LOWTHER

The moviemen who made "Lust For Life," the biography of painter Vincent Van Gogh which opened at the Royal Theatre yesterday, did something different—they stuck to the facts.

As a result, what shines in the movie is not the acting of Kirk Douglas as Van Gogh but rather the work of the artist, and especially his color.

* * *

Color is one thing Hollywood has that most of television does not, and Hollywood has never presented color better than in this movie.

The script is built around Van Gogh's letters.

In one he wrote that he was happiest "with the sun flooding everything and the light pure gold."

KIRK DOUGLAS

Time and again, this is communicated in fine fashion from the screen, particularly in sequences where the picture changes almost imperceptibly from a film of the French countryside to a Van Gogh painting of the same countryside.

Van Gogh's story is presented plainly and logically, including the reasons for his insanity and resultant ear-lopping and suicide, and is well acted by Douglas.

Anthony Quinn as Gauguin and Pamela Brown as Van Gogh's mistress are good.

* * *

Douglas and Quinn have been nominated for Academy Awards for their performances—if they get Oscars, they should be forever grateful to the color-graced Frenchman who made it possible.

One Murdered But 15 'Guilty'

CHICAGO (UP)—State's attorney Benjamin Adamowski said yesterday he will demand death for 15 teen-aged gang members for the street corner hammer murder of a Negro boy.

All the 15 white youths are equally guilty, even though only one of them wielded the weapon which battered the life out of 17-year-old Alvin Palmer, Adamowski said.

Adamowski said he will ask for murder indictments against the 16 and 17-year-old boys, all members of a highly-organized gang called "The Royals," today or early next week.

When they come to trial he will demand the electric chair for all 15 of them on grounds that they are guilty of "cold blooded murder," Adamowski said.

A coroner's jury backed up the state's attorney by recommending that all 15 youths be held to the grand jury on murder charges.

Adamowski said the gang members "sat around before they decided to get out and get somebody.

"They've got to learn that when they join a gang, the one who commits the crime will be punished."

$15,000 'Ridiculous'

Memorial Gore Price 'Fantastic' Says Ash

Reeve Arthur Ash said yesterday that he will ask council to rescind a motion passed Monday setting a price of $15,000 on a 3,000-square-foot sliver of the Shelbourne Street "memorial Gore" to be joined to adjacent commercial property.

"We are asking a ridiculous, if not impossible price," he said. "It is my personal opinion that council would be held up to ridicule in the eyes of the public in asking such a fantastic price."

Imperial Oil Company applied to council to rezone for a service station the corner property at Cedar Hill Crossroad and Shelbourne, and sought to purchase the small segment of municipal property, part of an undedicated park, next door to make a suitable site.

Reeve Ash said that he asked municipal assessor Stanley Green to assess the present and future value of the property and set a "more reasonable" price.

SIMILAR PROPERTIES

The assessor reported similar properties in the area were sold for commercial use at prices between 60 cents and 66.5 cents per square foot.

Using these figures as criterion, the price tag on the segment of park property would be between $1,800 and $1,995, he said. Adding 25 per cent to the price for "strategic value," he advised a figure of $2,495 as "fair."

The assessor's recommendations will be included with a letter by the reeve urging reconsideration to be sent to each councillor.

"We all want to encourage commercial businesses and light industry to locate in Saanich," the reeve said. "I can think of nothing that will hurt us more than to attempt to put fantastic figures on municipal property."

Murder Victim

Vancouver coroner's jury has ruled that Ann Ducharme, 27, whose semi-nude body was found on a cinder pile was murdered. The woman's feet weren't dirty although a shoe was found 80 feet away in muddy ground. Her clothing lay scattered along a 125-foot trail to the body, a detective said.

On Teen-Agers

Swiss to Use Rod

GENEVA (NANA) — Even in cool, clear Switzerland there are crazy, mixed-up kids. To meet the problem, the city fathers of Geneva are about to launch the most drastic campaign against juvenile delinquency in the Swiss Confederation.

After April 1, nobody under 18 will be allowed to attend movies, theatres, dance halls and, of course, night clubs. The ban is absolute and there will be no exceptions.

Law enforcement authorities and sociologists all over the continent are watching the Geneva experiment with great interest and not a little trepidation.

But the Cantonal officials who drew up the ordinance are determined to go ahead, though it is admitted Geneva's delinquency rate is no worse than that of other Swiss cities and a good deal less acute than that in some other European countries. What has upset authorities here is a slight, but steady, increase in crimes committeed by teen-agers during the past few years.

This is shocking in a community like ours where family life is healthy, broken homes are rare and there is relatively little poverty," a judge declared. "Young persons must be acquiring their bad habits outside the home, so that is where we are acting."

Chief of the Geneva police said it was apparent from the beginning that the ordinance could never be strictly enforced by the relatively small regular police force. "We should have to keep hopping 24 hours a day," he added, "and do nothing else but keep kids from sneaking into the cinemas."

So an auxiliary force is in process of being formed. It has been dubbed the "minors brigade." About a quarter of its members are women, since teenage girls, here as elsewhere are coming to represent nearly as tough a delinquency problem as the boys.

The new police body will only have power to arrest juveniles. Its duties mainly will be to patrol outside places of amusement and turn away those who are under-age or who lack identity cards.

Courthouse Shorthanded

Plea for a second full-time shorthand reporter for Victoria courthouse was made in the legislature Wednesday by George Gregory (Lib., Victoria).

Mr. Gregory said there was only one full-time reporter, who had been sick for some time, and a deputy who sometimes filled in.

He added that the Victoria Bar Association had written to Attorney-General Robert Bonner to ask for another man.
